LONDON, Aug. 26 (Monday).—(AP)—Premier Mussolini today warned the league of nations to keep its hands off Italy's adventure in East Africa. He issued the warning in an interview published by the Daily Mail. The dictator's statement was published soon after an announcement was made by the British war office that 1,000 troops will sail shortly to reënforce the undermanned garrison on the island of Malta.

In its interview with Mussolini, the Daily Mail quotes him as saying:

"It should be realized without the possibility of misunderstanding that whoever applies sanctions [penalties for treaty violations] against Italy will be met by the armed hostility of our country."

Threatens to Bolt League.

If sanctions are voted against Italy at Geneva, Mussolini warned, Italy will at once leave the league, the newspaper said.

[The British cabinet was reported last week to have decided to support sanctions against Italy if all members of the league council at the meeting Sept. 4 agree to such a move as an attempt to preserve peace in East Africa.]

Asked for his advice to other European nations for the best method of sustaining general peace, the newspaper's interviewer said Mussolini replied that other nations "should follow the the example of the United States and leave us alone to fulfill our mission."

"I shall send a delegation to the league council Sept. 4 for the purpose of putting Italy's case clearly before the world," Mussolini said in the interview at the Palazzo Venezia.

Challenge to League.

"Our cause will be supported by documents and photographs. I shall even send a case of books, including one by Lady Simon, denouncing the barbaric slave owning habits of the Ethiopians. And when the council has considered this evidence I shall challenge the league to treat Italy as being on the same footing as Ethiopia if it can."

The newspaper reported that the premier, speaking in the calm, decisive tones of one "who cannot be deterred," told the interviewer:

"If the league of nations were so reckless as to expand a remote colonial campaign into a general European war which would open wide the door to every unsatisfied ambition on the continent, even throughout the world—and this time it would cost not millions but tens of millions of lives—then the guilt would rest upon the league."

Claims Italy Wants Peace.

"We shall do nothing to set Europe by the ears, but others must have the same sense of responsibility, and before any one talks of sanctions he should think well upon their possible consequences," Mussolini was quoted as saying.

"Italy has given too many proofs from Locarno to Stresa of her desire to coöperate to insure the peace of Europe for her to be accused of wanting to put a match to a powder train.

"I hope what I shall say will clear up the situation for all Britons of common sense. I should remind them that Italy has always stood by the British empire, not only in the great war but at other times, when all the

SHOCKING TRUTH OF AUTO CRASH HORRORS TOLD

How Cars Mangle and Rend Shown.

81 Week-End Deaths

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Trafic crashes on the nation's highways took at least 81 lives over the week-end. Deaths by states were: Pennsylvania, 15; California, 10; Illinois, Missouri, Michigan, and Maryland, 7 each; Tennessee, 5; Virginia, Ohio, New York, and Texas, 3 each; Maine, Oklahoma, Wisconsin, and Minnesota, 2 each; Indiana, Colorado, Washington, and Iowa, 1 each.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

In yesterday's TRIBUNE was printed a story of three automobile crashes in the Chicago area. It was not an unusual week-end trafic story, in which newspaper readers were informed that "seven persons were killed and 13 others were injured."

Behind the routine news account of where and how the crashes occurred and who were killed and who injured seriously enough to rate mention in the newspaper columns lie other details. These will be set forth here, together with the story of what has happened to other persons listed among those injured, or possibly not listed at all, in accounts of previous trafic accidents in recent weeks.

The Horror of Crash Injuries.

It is this substratum of untold human suffering, the anguish of torn bodies, broken bones, brain injuries, and the mysterious changes in the human body clothed in the one word, "shock," which the ordinary trafic crash news story does not contain, that is to be delineated here.

It is a story which could be written practically every week, but is not because trafic accidents, deaths of horror and injuries often more terrible than death itself, have become a commonplace.

What a commonplace they have become is suggested by the automobile death toll of 1,258 in Cook county last year, with the injuries running into tens of thousands. In the Chicago city limits alone 469 have been killed since Jan. 1 of this year and 10,690 injured.

To a newspaper reading public hardened to figures of automobile fatalities a description of just what was involved in the bare statement, "seven persons were killed and 13 others were injured," may suggest more.

Head Cut Almost Off.

Yesterday's auto crash story told of a collision between a car bound west on Higgins road and a car bound north on Mannheim road at their intersection which caused the westbound car to carom into a row of gasoline pumps at a filling station on the northwest corner of the intersection, knocking down three of them. Two in this car were killed, one in the other.

Hjalmar Wedo, driver of the west bound car, was killed by being hurled through the windshield of his machine, the jagged glass slicing his throat, nearly cutting his head off. Wedo was 50 years old and lived at 1630 Humboldt boulevard.

Anthony Grincewiciz, 45 years old, 224 North Leavitt street, a passenger in this car, was thrown through the side door from the force of the impact. His skull was fractured and glass slashed his throat. He was picked up dead.

Face Smashed to Pulp.

Riding in the other car was Mrs. Emma Christensen, 73 years old, of Miami, Fla., who was visiting her foster son, Spencer LeRoy, 45, of 715 South Ridgeland avenue, Oak Park, the driver, for the first time in 10 years.

Her skull was fractured, her neck was broken, three ribs were crushed, and her face had struck something in the impact which smashed it to a pulp—"beyond recognition," in the restrained speech of attending physicians. She died after several hours of suffering in Northwestern hospital, Des Plaines.

LeRoy and his 14 year old son, Spencer Jr., escaped injury, but his wife, Eva, suffered a possible fracture of the pelvis which might make her an invalid for months, and cuts about the head, while their other son, Donald,

HITLER OPERATED UPON LAST SPRING, GERMANY REVEALS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Aug. 25.—Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler has completely recovered the use of his voice following upon an operation for the removal of a polypus from his right vocal chord, it was officially announced today.

The operation was performed last May 23 and an examination has proved the fuehrer's vocal chords to be completely normal. The huskiness of Hitler's voice last spring, notably on the occasion of his reichstag speech, attracted widespread attention. An examination by Prof. Von Eicken established the cause of the trouble and an operation was advised.

Hitler flew back to Berlin from south Germany today. He was received at the airport by Gen. Hermann Wilhem Goering, Prussian premier and reichsminister of air, and Wilhelm Frick, home minister.

GIRL, 10, PLAYS WITH SHOTGUN; KILLS SISTER, 6

Alice Green, 6 years old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Gross, 5338 Leland avenue, was accidentally shot and killed yesterday by her sister, Lorraine, 10 years old, on the Glen Oak farm, owned by B. L. Maicowoski, near Algonquin, in McHenry county, where the family was on a week-end outing.

While Mr. and Mrs. Gross were strolling about the yard the two little girls entered the garage. In a corner stood a 12 gauge shotgun. Alice was in the doorway as Lorraine picked up the gun to examine it. It was accidentally discharged, the blast striking Alice in the shoulder and neck.

The father, hearing the nearby shot, turned in time to see little Alice stumble from the doorway and fall to the ground dead.

SWERVES BIKE IN RIVER; CAUGHT ON SNAG; DROWNS

Harold Litky, 28 years old, 244 Lathrop avenue, Forest Park, was riding a bicycle yesterday along a path in the forest preserve on the banks of the Des Plaines river near Lake street in River Forest. A horseman came cantering towards him and Litky swerved his machine to avoid a collision. The bicycle toppled over the bank, throwing Litky into the river, where he drowned. Police, who recovered the body, said it had been caught on an old piece of machinery on the river bed.

John N. Willys, Manufacturer of Autos, Dies

New York, Aug. 26 [Monday].—(AP)—John North Willys, 61, automobile manufacturer and former ambassador to Poland, died at 12:55 a. m. today at his home, Riverdale-on-Hudson, of a cerebral embolus.

Mr. Willys had been stricken with a heart attack early in May, but had been recuperating. He suffered a relapse at his home in Riverdale last week, and his condition became critical Friday. Toward the last he was conscious, although semi-paralyzed.

Mrs. Willys and Mr. Willys' only daughter, Mrs. Jose Delanda, were in constant attendance upon him.

Native of New York.

A native of Canandaigua, N. Y., where he began the notable career which made him one of the titans of the automobile industry for years, he was ambassador to Poland from 1930 to 1932. He began with a bicycle business in Canandaigua and then moved to Elmira, N. Y., where he organized the Elmira Arms company.

In 1907 he purchased the Indianapolis plant of the Overland Automobile company, and in 1909 the Pope Toledo plant at Toledo, O. The concern became the Willys-Overland company.

Late in 1929 Mr. Willys sold his holdings in the automobile industry to a syndicate, the deal involving several million dollars.

Retires as Envoy to Poland.

After he retired as envoy to Poland he returned to the industry, then in receivership, and headed a reorganized group which was attempting to place the concern back on its feet. He was also the chairman of the Willys-Morrow company in Elmira.

Mr. Willys maintained homes in Toledo and New York City.

The first Mrs. Willys was the former Isabel Van Wie of Canandaigua, N. Y. They were married Dec. 1, 1897, and divorced in July, 1934, in Florida courts.

Mr. Willys and Mrs. Florence E. Dolan were married immediately afterward and sailed for a European honeymoon.

Find Mysteriously Missing Florida Pastor Out West

The Rev. W. C. Norman, 55 years old, a Baptist minister and former real estate man who has been mysteriously missing from his home in Palatka, Fla., since July 31, has been found in Los Angeles, apparently suffering from a "severe nervous shock," according to dispatches. He was traced to a Chicago hotel shortly after his disappearance. There the trail was lost.

BEE FLIES IN BOY'S MOUTH AND LEAVES HIM QUITE SPEECHLESS

Annapolis, Md., Aug. 25.—(AP)—A boy about 10 years old rushed into the accident ward of the Annapolis Emergency hospital today and stuck out a badly swollen tongue.

"M-m-m-m-m," he mumbled, fidgeting with pain, as doctors and nurses tried to find out what had happend to him. When ice had reduced the swelling of his tongue he told them.

While he was eating, he said, a bee flew into his mouth and stung him.

He left as quickly as he came, and nobody learned his name. He wasn't very loquacious.

CHICAGOAN KILLS WOMAN AND ENDS OWN LIFE IN OHIO

Irontown, O., Aug. 25.—[Special.]—Charles E. Horton, 42 years old, traveling freight agent for the Norfolk and Western railroad, and believed to be a Chicago resident, killed himself tonight after beating and shooting to death a 31 year old school teacher with whom he had been keeping company.

The double tragedy occurred on the tobacco farm of Roy Massie at Greasy Ridge, some thirty miles north of here. Massie is the father of the woman victim, Mrs. Faith Shively, a divorcée and school teacher at Windsor, O. She was a graduate of Ohio university, Athens, O.

She and Horton were spending the week-end at the Massie farm. Tonight while out for a walk they entered a large tobacco barn near the house. Massie heard shots a short time later and found the bodies.

The woman had been beaten with a pick, her skull fractured in three places, then shot through the neck. Horton had one bullet through his head and a .38 caliber revolver lay beside him. Massie told Sherif Bernard R. Monte that Horton said he worked out of Chicago and that he had a wife and a daughter in that city. A coroner's jury returned a verdict of murder and suicide.

DENVER ARRESTS ITS FIREBUG; HE'S 17 YEAR OLD BOY

Denver, Colo., Aug. 25.—(AP)—Detective Dave Eastes of the Denver police force announced tonight a 17 year old youth had admitted setting all but three of the recent fires which terrorized downtown Denver for a four day period. Eastes said the youth claimed to be Walter Cramer, son of Dr. Harry R. Cramer, Oakland, Cal.

The youth's arrest followed closely after the arsonist had invaded the police station itself and had set a fire in a lavatory.

ROOSEVELT THREATENS TO END U. S. RELATIONS

"MOST EMPHATIC PROTEST" LISTS "FLAGRANT" ACTS

Overthrow Schemes Result in Sharp Warning.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 25.—(AP)—The state department today made public the following text of the United States' protest to soviet Russia against violations of pledges concerning communist activities in the United States:

Under instructions from my government I have the honor to call attention to the activities, involving interference in the internal affairs of the United States, which have taken place on the territory of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics in connection with the seventh all-world congress of the communist international, and, on behalf of the government of the United States, to lodge a most emphatic protest against this flagrant violation of the pledge given by the government of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics on Nov. 16, 1933, with respect to noninterference in the internal affairs of the United States.

Pledge Is Recalled.

That pledge, which was given by the government of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics as a result of the discussions which took place prior to the establishment of diplomatic relations between the United States and the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, reads in full as follows:

"Washington, D. C., Nov. 16, 1933.

"My Dear Mr. President:

"I have the honor to inform you that coincident with the establishment of diplomatic relations between our two governments it will be the fixed policy of the government of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics:

"1. To respect scrupulously the indisputable right of the United States to order its own life within its own jurisdiction in its own way and to refrain from interfering in any manner in the internal affairs of the United States, its territories, or possessions.

Promised to Refrain.

"2. To refrain, and to restrain all persons in government service and all organizations of the government or under its direct or indirect control, including organizations in receipt of any financial assistance from it, from any act overt or covert liable in any way whatsoever to injure the tranquility, prosperity, order, or security of the whole or any part of the United States, its territories or possessions, and, in particular, from any act tending to incite or encourage armed intervention, or any agitation or propaganda having as an aim the violation of the territorial integrity of the United States, its territories, or possessions, or the bringing about by force of a change in the political or social order of the whole or any part of the United States, its territories and possessions.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 25.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt has threatened Russia with an interruption of friendly relations unless the soviet government puts a stop to the plotting on Russian soil of the overthrow of the American form of government by force.

The state department made public today the text of the note containing the warning which was presented to the soviet government by the American ambassador, William C. Bullitt. The protest is based on the proceedings of the world congress of the International Communist party, recently held in Moscow, which bristled with plans for inviting a proletarian revolution in the United States and other countries.

Charge Pledge Broken.

In the note the American government charges the soviets with breach of a specific pledge conditioned upon recognition of their government by the United States that they would not tolerate such plottings against the United States on their soil.

Withdrawal of recognition of the soviet government is one of the possibilities of a refusal or failure of Dictator Stalin to take the steps demanded by the Roosevelt administration, although it appears that such extreme action is not contemplated at this time. What is immediately contemplated is that unless satisfactory action shall be taken by Moscow friendly intercourse between the two nations will cease and only the most formal diplomatic relations will be maintained.

The American embassy in Moscow, now one of the largest of our foreign missions, would be reduced to a mere skeleton organization as a prelude to withdrawal of recognition in the event of a failure of the soviets to redeem their pledge of noninterference in American affairs.

Text of Pledge Recalled.

The American note to Moscow recites the full text of the Russian noninterference pledge given by Maxim Litvinoff, Russian foreign minister, in a letter to Mr. Roosevelt when he negotiated American recognition of the soviet socialist republics in 1933.

This pledge of the soviet government was specifically "not to permit the formation or residence on its territory of any organization or group and to prevent the activity on its territory of any organization or group or of representatives or officials of any organization or group which has as an aim the overthrow or the preparation for the overthrow of, or the bringing about by force of a change in, the political or social order of the whole or any part of the United States, its territories or possessions."

Ambassador Bullitt told the Moscow government he was instructed to "lodge a most emphatic protest" against the "flagrant violation of the pledge" resulting from the activities of the communist party's world congress in Moscow.

Cannot Be Ignorant.

The note states that the Russian government cannot be ignorant of the proceedings of the communist congress and of the formulation thereby of plans to be carried out by the communist organization in the United States to foment a proletarian revolution. It says it is unnecessary to list the American communists active in the congress whose admission to Russia was, of course, known to the soviet government.

That this is not the first protest against violation of the pledge of noninterference is disclosed by the note in which the American ambassador says that in previous remonstrances he has pointed out that the American people "resent most strongly" foreign interference in their affairs.

"The government of the United States," says the note, "considers the strict fulfillment of the pledge of noninterference an essential prerequisite to the maintenance of normal and friendly relations between the United States and the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics."

May Be "Serious Consequences."

The note then adds that the United States "anticipates the most serious consequences" if the soviets are "unwilling or unable" to prevent a repetition of the offense.

The protest concludes with an pression of regret that "in the present international situation the development of friendly relations" between the two peoples will "inevitably be precluded by the continuance" on Russian territory of activities involving interference in American internal affairs.

The proceedings of the communist world congress in Moscow in July attracted wide attention in this country because of the prominent participation of American communists therein and the discussion of ways and means of supplanting our present republican form of government with a working class dictatorship similar to that of Russia.

In the resolutions adopted by the congress there was nothing to indicate that "the proletarian revolution" advocated differed greatly from the "Roosevelt revolution" on which the President's biographer dwells. But reference to the communist doctrin establishes the basis for the charge in the American note to Moscow that the "proletarian revolution" being promoted in the United States involves the attempted overthrow of our form of government by force.

Party Aims Outlined.

The communist world congress adopted resolutions outlining the party aims in which it was stated that the "most important and decisive task of the communists consists in winning the confidence of millions of toilers, in transforming the sections of the Communist International into mass parties, in bringing the majority of the working class under the influence of the communist parties and thus insuring the conditions necessary for the victory of the proletarian revolution."

Dimitrov, a Bulgarian communist, was applauded by the congress when he said that "such a united mass revolutionary party of the working class must be a battling party, a revolutionary party, one that is sufficiently brave to lead the proletariat to the struggle for power as Comrade Stalin has said."

The report on the first topic of the agenda—the activity of the executive committee of the Communist International — contained numerous references to communist activities in the United States among the unemployed, in respect to strikes, among the farmers and in the labor movement.

Report Is Quoted.

In surveying the situation from the most important sections of the Communist International the report said:

"The communist party of the United States, after overcoming factional struggle, increased perceptibly in numbers, began, along with the sharpening of the economic crisis, to expand its influence among the wide masses of the working class, farmers, and intelligentsia. But in order still further to strengthen its influence in the working masses, the party must grow and strengthen its position in the ranks of the labor union movement. It must still more energetically than heretofore carry on a struggle for the creation of a broad mass party of workers and peasants as a coalition of all organizations of toilers against the bourgeoisie."

The coming warfare on the middle class in the United States was the burden of much discussion in the congress. Samuel Dardeck [Darcy], communist organizer at San Francisco, reported on activities among the seamen and longshoremen on the west coast. He described the activities of the communists in the seamen's strike of 1933 and predicted a big strike in September, 1935.

Sees Closer Coöperation.

"The outcome of the struggle," he said, "will not only depend on the work which will be done by us on the west coast. We consider that by the strength of all sections of the Communist International there will be assured a close coöperation of seamen and port workers of all countries in the general decisive struggle against the burgeoisie."

What action, if any, can be taken against the American communists who participated in the Moscow congress is a matter under consideration by the administration. State department officials say that so long as these communists are American citizens their return to this country could not be barred. The American participants included William Z. Foster, chairman of the American branch of the party; Samuel Dardeck, Benjamin Carruthers, Gilbert Greenberg, James W. Ford, and Martha Stone.

The threat by Mr. Roosevelt of a rupture of friendly relations with Russia completes his disillusionment with respect to his conditional recognition of the soviet government. One of the avowed aims of the liberals and radicals backing the candidacy of Mr. Roosevelt was the recognition of Russia, which previous administrations had denied because of the soviets' repudiation of the war debt, confiscation of American properties, and persistence in plotting to overthrow our form of government.

After his inauguration the liberals and radicals increased their pressure for recognition and in the fall of 1933 the President invited negotiations. Litvinoff, one of the wiliest negotiators of European officialdom, came in person and quickly got all he wanted out of Mr. Roosevelt. Litvinoff was liberal in giving promises. He not only promised to halt the communist plottings against America, but he promised to settle the war debt and talked volubly of the hundreds of millions of dollars worth of American manufactures the soviets would purchase. The brain trust heralded with enthusiasm the bonanza for American producers they thought they perceived in the recognition agreement.

Debt Parley Collapses.

The first disillusionment resulted from the collapse of the debt settlement negotiations. It became evident the soviets would pay nothing unless we loaned them the money and would buy nothing unless we granted them liberal credits. Litvinoff then accused the President of breaking faith.

After that our relations with Moscow cooled and Washington curtailed our diplomatic representation in Russia and shelved the plans for buying ground and building a million dollar embassy in Moscow.

Recently a trade agreement was entered into whereby Russia is to purchase 30 million dollars of American products in consideration of a reduction of our tarif on manganese and other Russian products.

Bullitt Hands Blunt Warning from U. S. to Red Diplomat

MOSCOW, Aug. 25.—(AP)—America's ambassador to Russia, William C. Bullitt, today delivered on behalf of the United States government an "emphatic protest" against activities of the recently closed congress of the Communist Internationale.

His blunt note to Vice Commissar Krestinsky, in acting charge of foreign affairs, said these activities involved interference in the internal affairs of the United States, and called them a "flagrant violation" of the pledge made by Soviet Russia at the time she was recognized by America.

Warns of Consequences.

The American government, he warned, "anticipates the most serious consequences" if the U. S. S. R. "is unwilling or unable to take appropriate measures to prevent further acts" in disregard of its pledge to prohibit activities in its territory aimed at changing the political or social order of the United States.

The note deemed it unnecessary to cite specific statements by delegates to the congress, at which some speakers indicated the eventual aim of the communist party in the United States was establishment of a soviet government.

Bullitt delivered the protest early in the afternoon to the vice commissar, advising him at the same time that he intended to give it immediate publicity. Krestinsky is acting in the place of Maxim Litvinoff, commissar of foreign affairs, who now is at Geneva.

Calls Correspondents.

Early tonight the ambassador summoned foreign correspondents and gave out the contents of the note, adding nothing for the time being to his written statement.

Soviet officials declined to comment as to when a reply might be expected.

Ambassador Bullitt canceled his proposed vacation to the Black sea when the comintern congress opened on July 25 to study published accounts of the meetings at close hand. He dispatched regular reports to Washington during the 27 days the congress was in session.

Most other diplomats made similar reports to their governments, but so far the American government alone has protested.

Diplomats and the foreign press were barred from the comintern sessions, and the only accounts of proceedings were given out by the official soviet press.

Following the close of the congress last Tuesday, Bullitt wired a complete and final report to Washington, and received in turn instructions to lodge the protest.

Causes Stir Among Americans.

Bullitt's action caused a stir in the American colony, but there was no evidence of undue alarm.

Russians previously have taken the stand that Moscow does not interfere in American affairs, and the activities of American communists could be listed in that category.

Final resolutions drafted by the comintern at its closing sessions which may throw a clear light on relations of the organization with national communist parties, have not yet been made public.

Principal American delegates to the comintern congress were William Z. Foster, early labor leader; Earl Browder, secretary-general of the communist party in the United States; Gil Green, and Sam Darcy.

sentatives or officials of any organization or group—which makes claim to be the government of, or makes attempt upon the territorial integrity of, the United States, its territories and possessions; not to form, subsidize, support, or permit on its territory military organizations or groups having the aim of armed struggle against the United States, its territories, or possessions, and to prevent any recruiting on behalf of such organizations and groups.

"4. Not to permit the formation or residence on its territory of any organization or group—and to prevent the activity on its territory of any organization or group, or of representatives or officials of any organization or group—which has as an aim the overthrow or the preparation for the overthrow of, or the bringing about by force of a change in the political or social order of the whole or any part of the United States, its territories, or possessions.

"I am, my dear Mr. President, very sincerely yours,

"MAXIM LITVINOFF.

"People's Commissar for Foreign Affairs, Union of Soviet Socialist Republics."

Obligations Are Cited.

My government invites particular attention to the obligations of the government of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics contained in the paragraph numbered 4.

In view of the fact that the aim and activity of an organization, such as the congress of the communist international, functioning on the territory of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, cannot be unknown to the government of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, it does not seem necessary to present material to show the aim of the congress of the communist international with respect to the political or social order of the United States, or to quote from the published proceedings of the congress to show its activity relative to the internal affairs of the United States, as evidenced in the discussion at the congress of the policies and activities of the communist organization in the United States and the determination and formulation by the congress of policies to be carried out in the United States by the communist organization in the United States.

Activity Pointed Out.

Nor does it appear necessary to list the names of representatives or officials of the communist organization in the United States who were active at the above mentioned congress and whose admission into the territory of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics was, of course, known to the government of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics.

As I have pointed out to the people's commissar for foreign affairs when discussing earlier violations of the undertaking of Nov. 16, 1933, the American people resent most strongly interference by foreign countries in their internal affairs, regardless of the nature or probable result of such interference, and the government of the United States considers the strict fulfillment of the pledge of noninterference an essential prerequisite to the maintenance of normal and friendly relations between the United States and the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics.

Position Frankly Stated.

The government of the United States would be lacking in candor if it failed to state frankly that it anticipates the most serious consequences if the government of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics is unwilling, or unable, to take appropriate measures to prevent further acts in disregard of the solemn pledge given by it to the government of the United States.

I may add that it is a source of regret that in the present international situation the development of friendly relations between the Russian and American peoples will inevitably be precluded by the continuance on territory of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, of activities involving interference in the internal affairs of the American people.

EXPECT RUSSIA TO BUY MORE COTTON IN U. S.

MOSCOW, Aug. 25.—(AP)—A large increase in soviet purchases of American cotton is believed in well informed circles to be the most likely development if the agreement of last month between Ambassador William C. Bullitt and Maxim Litvinoff, commissar for foreign affairs, is the spur to Russo-American trade that was expected at the time of its signature.

Coincident with the signing of the agreement on July 13 Litvinoff sent Bullitt a letter stating the soviet union intended to make purchases in the United States in the amount of about $30,000,000 during the next year.

Soviet imports of cotton have been steadily increasing, amounting to 9,600,000 rubles for the first half of 1935 as compared with 3,800,000 in the first half of 1934.

MYSTERIOUS PLANE SHOWERS PACIFIST BOOKS UPON ARMY

Mount Gretna, Pa., Aug. 25.—[Special.]—A mystery airplane having the appearance of a United States army pursuit ship flew over the encampment of the Third corps area in annual maneuver at Mount Gretna and Indiantown Gap today, dropping a large quantity of radical literature addressed to the soldiers. A report of the affair was made to Gen. Robert E. Callan, commander of the Third corps United States army.

The plane was disguised to resemble a fast army ship. The wings were painted O. D. and the fuselage dark blue. The speed of the ship was estimated at more than 150 miles an hour after it had dropped the literature to the ground.

Nearly 20,000 men of the regular army and the National Guard of Maryland and Pennsylvania are encamped near here. When it became known that the mystery plane had dropped scores of pamphlets, advising the enlisted men not to fight or bear arms, an immediate order was issued that the plane be overtaken, if possible.

Army aviators, in fast ships, started in pursuit of the plane, but before the army planes rose a thousand feet the mystery ship was lost to view. Efforts were made tonight to identify the plane.

HEAR ROOSEVELT BACKS HOUSE ON LOAN REJECTION

Predict Senate Will Bow to the President.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 25.—[Special.]—A bewildered and befuddled house will assemble tomorrow noon and make an effort to wriggle free of the legislative snarl in which it was left last midnight by the last-minute action of the senate in attaching a half billion dollar wheat and cotton loan amendment to the third deficiency appropriation bill.

At the same time the senate will be in session with nothing to do except wait for action by the lower body. Intense alarm filled administration leaders as they considered the possible peril in the situation. Radical blocs in the senate may seize the opportunity to bring up legislation involving silver, inflation, the bonus, farm mortgage refinancing and similar measures.

Senate Starts Trouble.

Both houses had planned to terminate the session and had adopted a concurrent resolution to that effect when the senate suddenly tacked onto the $93,000,000 deficiency bill riders carrying mandatory loans of 12 cents a pound on cotton and 90 cents a bushel on wheat.

The house rebelled at being asked to pass upon the senate amendments in the few minutes left it before the midnight deadline. The senate hurriedly recalled its adjournment resolution.

All eyes will be upon James P. Buchanan [Dem., Tex.], chairman of the house appropriations committee when the lower body meets. He conferred today with President Roosevelt, who faces in the present situation the greatest legislative crisis of his term. The President was understood to have told Buchanan to stand firm in his resistance to the wheat and cotton amendments, which were, in effect, a revolt against the President's new cotton program announced yesterday.

Put Blame on Roosevelt.

Growing irritation with the chief executive was apparent in the leaders of both bodies. They pointed out that the present deadlock never would have been possible if congress had not been kept long after the usual adjournment time by the President's insistence that his soak the rich tax plan be passed at this session.

Many were the possibilities if congress should finally approve the new amendments. The resignation of both Secretary of Agriculture Wallace and AAA Administrator Chester Davis as a protest was one of these.

One compromise drafted in the early hours of this morning by Vice President Garner, Majority Leader Joseph T. Robinson, Senator Alben W. Barkley [Dem., Ky.] and others was an offer to the cotton-wheat bloc that action on the amendments surely would be taken next January if the farmers were in no better circumstances at that time.

Special Rule Needed.

Senator James F. Byrnes [Dem., S. C.], leader of the cotton claque, said he would stand firm against all such proposals. The house would approve the amendments if given a chance to vote upon them, he asserted. Such a likelihood seemed improbable so long as Chairman Buchanan persisted in his firm stand. The bill now lies on the speaker's desk and in the ordinary course of circumstances would go to Buchanan's committee. A special rule would be needed to change this procedure.

The President retained his usual calm exterior although reported to be seriously perturbed. He went on a short cruise in the Sequoia this afternoon and attended a private showing of movies in the White House tonight.

Most congressmen were confused hopelessly over the problem. Questioning of a number disclosed that they were bewildered at the sudden last minute developments which caused them to cancel their train reservations. The leaders were fearful that the representatives could not be held long in the capital with only the deficiency bill to act upon.

Disposal yesterday of the President's soak the rich bill made most of the Democratic majority feel that they had discharged their responsibilities to the administration.

Wants Security Fund.

The President, of course, wants the deficiency bill acted upon, minus the senate amendments, because it carries an appropriation of $70,000,000 for the inauguration of the social security program. He has refused to listen to suggestions that he might easily take this amount from the $4,800,000,000 work relief appropriations.

Representative John Taber [Rep., N. Y.], ranking minority member on the appropriations committee, said he believed that the President undoubtedly would win out in his contest with the congress.

With Presidential support behind him, all eyes will be upon Buchanan when the house meets tomorrow. Easy going Speaker Joseph W. Byrns is said to have promised Buchanan his backing in whatever the Texas representative decides to do.

The senate amendments were in direct defiance of the new cotton plan approved by the President and announced by the agricultural adjustment administration, whereby farmers would receive a 9 cent loan and a 3 cent subsidy on exports.

Hayward Wins Leg

Tucson, Ariz., Aug. 25.—(AP)—Leland Hayward of Hollywood, Cal., led the air derby, sponsored by Ruth Chatterton, with a total of 183 points for precision flying when the six men and women contestants landed here tonight at the completion of the first leg of their coast-to-Cleveland flight.

Earl D. Ricks of Hot Springs, Ark., came close behind with 182 points, and Mrs. Ethel Sheehey of Fontana, Cal., was in third place with 150.

Miss Chatterton's plane arrived here from Yuma at 4:10 p. m., and the contestants began to arrive an hour later. Miss Cecile Hamilton of Santa Monica, who landed at Casa Grande, Ariz., to take on gasoline, was the last to come in, a few minutes before 9 p. m.

The planes will hop off for El Paso at 6:30 a. m. tomorrow.

SNELL ANSWERS ROOSEVELT PLEA TO YOUTH OF U. S.

G. O. P. Urges Acceptance of Challenge.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 25.—(AP)—The Republican party joined direct issue with the Roosevelt administration tonight in an appeal to the youth of the country for concerted opposition to a revision of the constitution.

In a direct reply to President Roosevelt's radio call to a new generation of voters for a united attack upon the "old order," Representative Snell, the Republican leader of the house, asked that they accept the challenge.

Not Party, but Country Issue.

"It is not a question of what is best for the Republican party, but of what is best for America," he said in an address released through the Republican national committee.

"It is not a question of whether the New Deal and this administration have shamelessly repudiated the definite pledges of the last Democratic national convention, and in the house of its leader, betrayed the principles and traditions of the Democratic party.

"That is a question solely for determination by the next Democratic national convention. The real question is whether or not the new economic system, which the New Deal and the present administration is offering as a substitute for the old, will better serve the real interests of the American people than the one they are asked to discard."

Bolton Assails Dictation.

Snell's speech followed an assertion by Representative Bolton, [Rep., Ohio], chairman of the national Republican congressional committee, that the session of congress about to close was "a portrayal of the danger of the domination of popular government by a dictatorial executive."

In addition, the day brought a statement from Senator Dickinson [Rep., Iowa] that the people are "tremendously concerned about the expenditures and waste," and "alarmed about the prospects of additional taxation."

Sees Nation in Lockstep.

Snell asserted that the New Deal program "attempts to place a whole people in lockstep and deny to the individual the right to exercise his own judgment and resourcefulness in the management of his business, farm, or factory."

"It would reduce every citizen to the status of an automaton taking orders from a government burocracy, neither elected by nor accountable to the people."

Several times he quoted from Mr. Roosevelt's speech of last night directed to a convention of Young Democratic clubs in Milwaukee.

"Without any attempt to elaborate, I submit there never has been a period within the memory of any living being when there was greater confusion, doubt, and fear in the minds of all classes of people, in all walks of life, or a greater threat of destruction of all that is worth while of our economic and political system than exists today, as a direct result of two and one-half years of the Roosevelt administration.

Fears Rewriting of Law.

"It is admitted on all hands that in order to establish this new economic system, our federal constitution must be wholly rewritten. Already the administration is launching a campaign to that end. This is the most serious of all problems which the young men and young women of today must consider and decide.

"The constitution was not written for the rich, or for the strong, or for those who occupy places of authority, or have accumulated great wealth. It was written for the humble citizen.

"The moment the guaranties that great charter of human liberty gives the individual citizen are abolished, it then becomes a struggle for the survival of the strongest and the most powerful. Every man is then free to invade the field of every other man's rights. Such a contest would have but one conclusion—those who possess the power, the wealth, and the cunning would control the government and compel all others to do their bidding."

Charges Truce with Radicalism.

Snell charged that the tax bill, laying additional levies upon the wealthy, was "pushed on a reluctant congress and forced on a helpless people by the President of the United States in order that he might make his peace with the radical elements of the country, anticipatory of the next presidential campaign."

Emphasizing the appeal to youth at every point, Snell asserted that "the rising generation" will be called upon to pay "the almost incredible debts which are being incurred by this administration."

"Nothing so deadens ambition and renders industry and thrift so futile as the certain knowledge that one will not be permitted to enjoy the fruits of his efforts and the profits of his resourcefulness, but will be compelled to turn them over to pay the bills of a profligate government," he added.

SHOCKING TRUTH OF AUTO CRASH HORRORS TOLD

Other passengers in Wedo's car included Mrs. Margaret Grincewicz, wife of Anthony, and the Brevik family. Mrs. Grincewicz sustained a sprained back and her left shoulder severely bruised.

Andrew Brevik, 33, of 3456 Opal avenue, received a deep gash on his head which was sewn up with several stitches. His wife, Edel, was bruised, their 9 year old daughter, Evelyn, cut across the top of the head, requiring four stitches, and another daughter, Bryhild, 7 years old, was shaken up.

Ground Drenched with Blood.

The ground near the wrecked cars was drenched with blood.

In another of the crashes an automobile which struck a CCC truck at the intersection of 31st street and Highway 54, near Hinsdale, turned over five times after the collision. Four persons of the five who were riding in the automobile were picked up about 200 feet from the intersection.

In the car was the body of the driver, Clyde C. Netzley, 34 years old, of 326 West Jefferson avenue, Naperville, a garage owner. "His whole face was knocked to one side, his jaw fractured and broken into many pieces," said Dr. A. R. Nikli.

Miss Sarah Stuff, 32 years old, of Mercersburg, Pa., a passenger in Netzley's car, also died two hours after the crash from a crushed skull and internal injuries.

Listed in the original news story as "incurring cuts and bruises" was Miss Lois Greenwald, 24 years old, of Chambersburg, Pa. At the Hinsdale sanitarium, her injuries were listed as cerebral congestion and concussion, lacerations of the head and internal bleeding.

Muscles Wrenched and Torn.

Mrs. Eva Netzley, 34 year old widow of the driver, came out of the accident with a brain concussion, lacerations of the ligaments and muscles of her right shoulder and neck, abrasions on both legs and a deep gash on her left temple.

William Stuff, 26 years old, brother of the dead woman, a farmer of near Mercersburg, was the least injured. His right hip was thrown out of joint and there were numerous lacerations.

In the third crash, a convertible coupe going north in Chicago road at 165th street hit the caboose of a freight train on the Grand Trunk railway.

The two killed were Francis Clements, 22, of 11111 Forestville avenue, and Walfred Johnson, 24, of 11123 South Park avenue. Clements died instantly, his skull being fractured, his hips and legs broken and his chest crushed. Johnson died later at Ingalls Memorial hospital, from similar injuries. Fred Anderson, 11357 Stevens street, is in a critical condition in the hospital. His head was cut seriously, and the flesh was ripped off his hips.

HORROR BEHIND THE NEWS

Newspaper readers were informed in a few lines of type recently that Mrs. M. J. Perkins, 26 years old, of 5627 Wayne avenue, was "seriously injured" in a crash of two automobiles at Clark street and Bryn Mawr avenue. She was on one of four victims standing on the sidewalk as one of the cars hopped the curb and crashed into them. Three persons in the cars also were injured.

Behind these bare facts lie the details. What happened to Mrs. Perkins was that she was tossed up in the air, crashed through the plate glass window of a corner drug store, at 5601 North Clark street, and landed in the show case of the store. Her right foot was left hanging by the bone and tendon, all the rest of the leg at that point being ripped away. An extremely ragged, deep laceration of the right forearm was an incidental injury.

Squad Saves Her Life.

She was taken to Edgewater hospital for emergency treatment after a trafic accident prevention bureau squad saved her life by applying a tourniquet to stop the blood flow. Later she was taken to Ravenswood hospital.

Revealing how these accidents wh ı do not use death often mean days, weeks and months of prolonged agony, Mrs. Perkins a few days after the accident underwent an amputation of her right leg four inches below the knee because of gangrene.

"She went into shock after the operation, but revived, and probably will recover," Dr. Dyer said. "Her courage and determination to survive are largely responsible."

Lost Shoe Contains a Foot.

The coolly efficient but warmly human nurses in the receiving ward at the County hospital are used to seeing stretchers bearing quiet forms, or feebly groaning ones, carried in by policemen. They are used to removing bloodsoaked clothes and allowing the intern on duty to probe around and give a superficial diagnosis before sending them upstairs. They may put fresh sheets over the trafic accident victims and see them spattered with bright fresh blood in the short time it takes to wheel them down a corridor.

But a few cases stand out in their minds, they say. For example, the recent one in which a policeman came in behind a patient on a stretcher, carrying the patient's shoe with a human foot in it. That man died. Others haven't died. Their recovery is a slow matter, coupled with much agony.

Newspaper readers who may see a paragraph devoted to their injuries forget about them. But months, a year, sometimes years of their lives are colored by their experiences labeled "serious injuries" or "minor injuries." A trafic policeman is one of these—he suffered a skull fracture and a year later he was committed to an insane asylum as a direct result.

Girls, 6 And 3, Run Down.

The recent Sunday night when two little girls were brought into the County hospital receiving room, limp and their faces obliterated by blood, is recalled by the nurses on duty, Miss Dorothy Anderson and Miss Helen Holmes.

Bridget, 6 years old, was in a stupor. She was bleeding from the right eye and it was thought at first she had received a skull fracture. Her sister, Elizabeth, 3 years old, was bleeding from a deep abrasion over the right eyebrow and another over the right temple. It was a jagged gash. She was crying.

In the children's hospital a few days later the girls said they were standing at a corner curb, on the sidewalk, when "a car going real fast hit us." Two cars crashed, one careening into the children, nurses said.

Nearby in Children's hospital was Rose Cingrani, 5 years old, whose two legs were being held straight up in the air, for six weeks at least, so that two fractured femurs, the bones between the pelvis and the knee, may knit properly. She was struck by an automobile as she crossed the street in view of her mother, who sat on the porch of her home in the 300 block on West 47th street.

Raymond, 7, lay quietly in his bed, his big brown eyes dilated, as he said, "My mother told me both wheels ran over me."

Victim of Two Accidents.

Make the rounds with Miss Dorothy Ellson, assistant on women's fractures ward in the main building at County hospital.

Here is a young woman, her face pretty but anemic and pale She's suffering from bone infection.

The patient is Miss Julia Nason, 19 years old, 9340 Manistee avenue, South Chicago, the victim of two accidents. Last Feb. 20 she was a passenger in a car which hit a truck at South Chicago avenue and 93d street. Her leg hit the dashboard. It was the same leg which had been injured March 16, 1932, when she was riding on a motorcycle and was in an accident. Then the middle third of the femur shaft sustained a compound fracture. The last accident caused the lower third of the shaft to fracture. Now chronic osteomyelitis has set in and a fresh operation was necessitated.

Entertainer Struck at Crossing.

A "compound fracture" means in less neat language that the bone is broken so that often it sticks out through the flesh. Miss Mamie Wiggins of 812 North Wabash avenue, an entertainer under the name of "Princess Omeme," occupies a bed on the same ward. The right leg is held "in traction," with weights adjusted to hold it up. Both bones in this leg received a compound fracture. Both bones of her left leg received a simple fracture, and the fibula was fractured in two places. That happened eight weeks ago, as she crossed Clark street at Maple, and a car struck her.

A "Queen Elizabeth collar" was worn by Mrs. Melvin J. Stevenson for a time before she donned the head halter she now wears. Such are the fashion notes in the women's fractures ward. This means that Mrs. Stevenson, who was in a car with her husband when it turned over twice in Holy Cross, Ia., dislocating the fourth and fifth cervical vertebrae, wore first a large plaster cast around her neck. Now her head is held securely down by 10 pound weights and a "halter." She has been in the County hospital since July 3, after spending 2½ weeks in a Dubuque, Ia., hospital.

"The Steinman nail" is a phrase familiar enough to trafic accident fracture patients. It is a long silver nail which is driven through the bone in the heel. This is done in cases of fracture of bones below the knee when an open wound prevents a cast from being applied successfully.

The foot must be held up and the bones stretched, and the nail enables the physicians to keep the bones pulled out by means of attaching weights thereto.

Mrs. Lillian Kunkel of 2340 West 21st place is in the County hospital, six months after an accident wherein the car in which she was riding smashed into a bridge on icy pavement at Western avenue and 26th street. She incurred a spiral fracture of the femur shaft in her right leg and both bones in the lower left leg were fractured.

The left leg was suspended by means of the nail. For three and one-half months her leg was "in traction," meaning held aloft with weights attached. Then physicians learned that they had not achieved alignment of the bones. An operation was performed. Now she is able to sit in a wheel chair part of the day. Another woman was injured in the same accident, but now is walking again.

Leg Amputated Twice.

In another ward is Mrs. Augusta Fenzau, 47 years old, of 2533 West 47th street. The sheet bulges on her left side, then flattens out suddenly. This is because her left leg has been amputated twice since she was struck by a southbound automobile as she left a street car at the southwest corner of 34th street and Western boulevard and crossed the street. That was on April 6 last.

Mrs. Fenzau did cooking and cleaning up to that time. She has two sons, 10 and 12 years old. She was on her way to her sister's place to take a bath, as the room she stayed in did not have a tub, when she was hit.

Dragged 200 Feet.

In the men's surgical ward, Dr. A. R. Nachman, interne, points out Tony Janusik, 4337 South Lincoln street, 27 years old, as a perfect example of manifold abrasions. Tony polishes surgical gut for a living. Now he has plenty of it decorating his body from head to foot. He was struck by an automobile going south on the wrong side of the street.

Dragged by the automobile 200 feet, Janusik entered the hospital a mass of cuts and deep abrasions on hips, left side of stomach, shoulders, head, and face. It took the operating room attendants from 1 a. m. to 5 a. m. to clean out the abrasions, cut away the dead skin and sew him up.

His head "busted open," in his words, his nose split from forehead to tip, his eyes so full of blood he could not see, and his right leg in a compound fracture, the bone sticking out, Frank Marshall, 52 years old, arrived at the County hospital last July 21, victim of a hit and run driver in Evanston, he says. He now has his leg "in traction."

In the same ward, men's fractures, where 65 per cent of the cases usually are trafic victims, according to Dr. John Reynolds, Michael Cullinane, 60 years old, of 4314 North avenue is in a precarious condition. A motorist ran over Michael in front of his home and then backed into him and ran over him again, according to his story.

Often the victim of a trafic accident, after spending weeks or months with his leg hoisted high above his head, is told that the bones have overlapped, not knitted properly. An operation then is performed to clean out the muscles in between the overlapped bones.

Unconscious 13½ Hours.

William Haddow, of 1030 Margaret avenue, Des Plaines, a thin little man, has had such an experience. He is in the men's fracture ward. He suffered a fractured femur, above the knee, and a fracture at the ankle. On June 13 he was riding in an automobile driven by a friend, who, to avoid being hit by a car, drove off the road. He hit a concrete culvert and Haddow remembers nothing else. The engine was driven back 18 inches, and while the driver suffered three broken ribs, gashes on the leg and head, Haddow fared worse.

"They tell me that state police picked me up outside the car," he said. "No doors were open, they say. There was a hole in the windshield, so maybe I went through it. I only know I was unconscious from 10:30 at night until noon the next day. My nose was split from top to bottom, no skin was left on my forehead, and they took stitches in my chin."

Surgical Stitches Wake Him.

Frank Rada of 1426 West 21st place, 41 years old, a small man with a paper white face and shadowed eyes, rolled a cigaret from the fancy shelves and receptacles he has arranged on the elaborate ropes and pulleys which hold up his leg, as he told his story. He did have a 50 pound weight attached to his leg, but now it has been reduced to 30 pounds.

On March 6 last he was struck by an automobile and taken to the County hospital, unconscious. He awoke to find surgeons sewing up a wound in his head. His left thigh was deeply lacerated and doubly fractured It required four months to heal, after which an operation was performed. The thigh was cut through to reach an inner bone, crossed with another. Meanwhile a break in the lower leg meant that it was suspended by means of an inserted silver nail for 73 days. Infection set in. Now whether union will occur in Rada's thigh is a question.

Another patient, Fred Cameron, 1145 North Lockwood avenue, 52 years old, is waiting to undergo a fourth operation on his right arm, fractured in November, 1933, when he was struck by an automobile. He will have another bone graft made in an attempt to get a union.

WOMAN DIES IN CRASH

Mrs. Ida Branovicz, 57 years old, 1446 West Roosevelt road, was killed, and two other persons were injured, one seriously, yesterday, when the automobile her husband was driving crashed into a north bound street car at the intersection of 55th street and Kedzie avenue. Witnesses told Chicago Lawn police that Meyer Branovicz, 57 years old, the driver, failed to stop for a trafic light.

None of the passengers on the street car was injured, but all were shaken by the crash, which smashed in the front door. Mrs. Freda Grazer, 45 years old, 5344 South Ridgeland avenue, a passenger in the car, sustained a possible skull fracture, several broken ribs, and bruises. Branovicz incurred several rib fractures and serious lacerations.

The death yesterday brought the Cook county 1935 trafic toll to 597. At 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon 469 persons had been killed within the city limits of Chicago and 10,690 persons injured.

Mrs. Max Kahn, 70 years old, 808 Lawrence avenue, received a fractured skull last night when three cars collided at Skokie boulevard and Ashland avenue, Wilmette. Others injured are: Mrs. Celia Cohen, 40 years old; Harry Cohen, 45; Mrs. Bessie Perlmutter, 35; Maurice Perlmutter, 36, all of 808 Lawrence avenue, and John Egdorf, 37 years old, 4325 Greenview avenue. They are in Evanston hospital. Police were told that Egdorf, driving in Skokie boulevard, struck the machine of Albert Seyller, 21, of 7321 Lowell avenue. Egdorf's car then caromed off and hit the machine driven by Perlmutter.

PLAN BIG PARADE IN CONSTITUTION DAY OBSERVANCE

50 Groups, Many Military, Expected to March.

Disregarding the attitude of the Chicago park commissioners toward the event, the committee sponsoring commemoration of Constitution day on Sept. 17 announced yesterday that it is rapidly completing its plans, the latest addition being arrangements for a spectacular parade largely of a military character.

The announcement of this feature of the celebration came from Brig. Gen. John V. Clinnin, who said that the only change in arrangements if the use of Soldiers' field is denied by the park board will be a shift in the line of march.

"Regardless of the line of march," he said, "the parade will be a spectacle worthy of the occasion. It will include floats portraying outstanding events in American history, a vast assemblage of flags and automobiles bearing patriotic decorations.

Many Groups to Take Part.

"The parade will wind up at the meeting place, wherever it is, parking space will be reserved for the floats and cars, and there will be reservations for all participants for the evening program."

Gen. Clinnin said that he was inviting more than fifty patriotic, civic, and fraternal organizations to take part in the parade. Invitations also have been extended, he said, to industrial organizations and business units who desire to contribute to the demonstration of allegiance to the constitution.

In addition to the long list of patriotic forces headed by the G. A. R., the Spanish War Veterans, the American Legion, and the D. A. R., Gen. Clinnin is in communication with the Boy Scouts, the Camp Fire girls, and other organizations of children who will be given prominent places in the patriotic demonstration.

Pageant Planned Sept. 16.

The Chicago Bar association as well as the Union League club will observe the anniversary of the adoption of the federal basic law on the eve of Constitution day. Final plans were announced yesterday for the presentation of a pageant, "The Constitutional Convention," at the Medinah temple, 14 East Ohio street, the evening of Monday, Sept. 16.

Judge Ross C. Hall is chairman of the committee in charge of the evening. An admission fee of 35 cents—merely sufficient to cover costs—will be charged. Medinah temple has a seating capacity of 4,300 and it is predicted this will be exhausted.

5,000 SEE MAN ATTACK ANGELUS TEMPLE PASTOR

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 25.—(AP)—An unidentified man rushed the platform of Aimee Semple McPherson's Angelus temple tonight and assaulted Mrs. Rheba Crawford Splivalo, associate pastor, before a congregation of 5,000.

The man rushed the platform from behind the wings, seized Mrs. Splivalo, and aimed a blow at her face. She stepped back and avoided the blow, but her assailant seized her other arm and attempted to throw her to the floor.

The congregation was singing a hymn and her cry for help was drowned out by the voices. A bandsman in the pit leaped over the footlights and seized the man.

Mrs. Splivalo kept the audience singing until police arrived and hustled the man away.

6 DIE, 50 HURT AS WATERSPOUT STRIKES GENOA

GENOA, Italy, Aug. 25.—(AP)—A towering waterspout swept into the city from the harbor early tonight, killing at least six persons and injuring more than fifty. Three enlisted men of the Italian air force were among the dead.

The spout made its appearance in the midst of an electrical storm. A large section of the water front was reduced to tangled wreckage.

The San Giorgio pier, where many great ocean liners were berthed, was damaged most. All electric cranes along the pier were demolished.

The liner Conte di Savoia, completing a voyage from New York, burst from its moorings. It was swept down the harbor. Tugs barely prevented the liner from crashing into a wall and several nearby vessels.

Twelve buildings were destroyed along the waterfront.

The Genoa fire department was called out to search the ruins along the water front for victims.

The waterspout struck Genoa after a day of storms which killed two other persons by lightning in nearby Varezze.

CANDID PHOTOS SHUT DOORS OF GAMBLING JOINT

'Too Busy' to Notice Games at Dev-Lin, Police Say.

The Dev-Lin, "hot spot" gambling house on Lincoln avenue, near Devon avenue, just north of the city limits in Tessville, was closed again last night, but not through the efforts of the county law enforcing agencies who are supposed to be emulating the city police in keeping the gambling lid clamped on.

After reading THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE, which contained several candid camera shots of some of the 600 bettors wagering their money, and a story explaining the workings of the joint, the Chicago gambling syndicate, which has been operating the bungalow, pulled down the large advertising signs, turned off the flood lights, closed up the parking lot, and sat back to await developments.

The Police Explain Things.

The gambling house is in the area of the Morton Grove county highway police. On May 19, then running under the name of "The Hide Away," the establishment was closed by Lieut. Lester Laird, in charge of the station. Lieut. Laird could not be reached last night for comment, but his superior, Herbert Burns, chief of the highway police, had this to say:

"I didn't know about this place and I haven't seen a newspaper for three days. All of my men in the three districts have been working night and day for two months rounding up the golf club bandits, murderers, and other criminals, and trying to keep the heavy summer trafic on the highways from getting tangled.

"There are 943 square miles in my territory and I have about 100 men. I haven't had the time to spare them to check on every crap game or handbook. Of course I'll see to it that the place is closed now.

Terms Games Incontrolable Evil.

"Taking care of the crime and trafic situation in the county is an all time job. Many of my men are working 12 and 16 hours a day. But if there were 500 highway police, gambling in the county still could not be controled. It's just like the prohibition question."

Chief of Police Lorenz Schey of Tessville didn't have much to say about the Dev-Lin. In his opinion it was a matter for the county authorities. Said he: "I am the only policeman on the force, and I haven't time to check on every gambling house."

Dev-Lin watchers told visitors the closing was perhaps "temporary."

G. O. P. TO INVITE LABOR TO RALLY IN PARK SEPT. 2

Unions, Denied Field, to Ignore Day.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Sponsors of the big Republican Labor Day rally at Riverview park are planning, it was learned yesterday, to invite the Chicago Federation of Labor to join in the mass meeting and festivities.

For the first time in many years labor will not hold its own celebration of Labor day. The organization declared itself homeless recently when it was unable to obtain the use of Soldiers' field which had been sought as the scene of a two day celebration. It is contemplating a suit for damages against the commissioners of the Chicago park district and it plans not to observe its own holiday.

In past years, the Republican gathering at Riverview on Labor day has suffered from competition with the Federation's celebration. Now it is hoped the two big crowds will merge.

An Appropriate Observance.

"It is fit and proper," said Orville J. Taylor, chairman of the Republican citizens' committee cooperating with the general committee arranging the Riverview meeting, "that all elements should join in a 'call to arms' on Labor day.

"On this occasion, not only all Republicans but all Jeffersonian, right-thinking Democrats should pay tribute to the courage and patience and sacrifice displayed by labor during the depression and especially during the Roosevelt administration.

"They should unite in warning labor of the menace with which it is confronted in the New Deal and covenant with labor to protect it from that which the burocrats in Washington would inflict upon it in lieu of the sound conservative relations which heretofore have prevailed between labor and its government."

Chairman Taylor said that the issues of the coming campaign that will be emphasized at the rally "will transcend all previous party issues between Republicans and Democrats."

"The industrial, economic, financial and social status of the great army of American labor, the welfare of which is so essential to the advancement of this country, must be preserved. Communism and socialism and all of their ideas must be discarded and barred from our governmental scheme of affairs."

Col. Frank Knox, Chicago editor and publisher, and John W. Bricker, attorney general of Ohio, are to speak.

In addition to the committee headed by Taylor, there is a women's committee headed by Mrs. Walter B. Wolf and a young people's committee of which Robert Ticken is chairman, which are aiding the regular Republican organization in Labor day plans.

HANDS OFF ROW IN AFRICA! ITALY WARNS LEAGUE

Mussolini Says Sanctions Mean War.

rest of the world lined up against Britain."

In reply to a direct question whether there is the slightest possibility of his changing his attitude, Mussolini replied in the negative, saying "none at all—unless Ethiopia gives in," the newspaper said.

The dictator, clad in a cream colored silk suit, with a light blue linen shirt unbuttoned at the neck, and wearing tennis shoes, referred to his plans in Ethiopia as something so definitly established as to be beyond dispute, it was stated.

The Daily Mail announced Mussolini made it clear that if any application of sanctions went so far as to blockade Italian ports, or to close the Suez canal, then Italy "will resist with all her force on land and sea and in the air."

Settles Differences with France.

When asked if it were true whether he had settled all of Italy's outstanding disputes with France, in Tunis and elsewhere, in exchange for a pledge from the French government to leave Italy's hands free in east Africa, the newspaper said Mussolini replied:

"It is true that as a consequence of agreements July 1 all differences between ourselves and France were settled."

Continuing, Mussolini said:

"The task of colonizing and civilizing Ethiopia will provide work for the Italian people for the next fifty years at least.

"As soon as we are allowed to devote ourselves to this immense undertaking we shall be associates, not antagonists, of the British empire, bound by reciprocal respect of Italian interests by Britain and a like feeling for the British empire by Italy."

Points to Need of Colonies.

Pointing out that Italy has a population of about 40,000,000 persons living in a territory half as big as France, Mussolini was quoted as saying that Ethiopia is three times as large as Italy and contains great tracts of land suitable for Italian settlement.

Opening up of the vast Ethiopian interior, he said, would benefit "all civilized states." Colonization of Ethiopia by Italy would "completely fulfill all colonial aspirations of Italy," Mussolini was reported to have asserted.

With flashing eyes, Mussolini reportedly declared:

"We cannot draw back now. The 200,000 Italian rifles in East Africa would go off by themselves."

He emphasized that the "Italian massacre" at Adowa was "a wound from which the heart of the Italian people has been smarting for forty years. It must be healed now once for all."

Speaks of Nation's Finances.

Touching mildly on the reported financial distress in Italy arising from the East African adventure, Premier Mussolini assertedly said:

"Our financial condition arouses no uneasiness. The Italian people have given such proof of their self-sacrifice that there can be no doubt of their determination to face whatever further financial sacrifices may be required by the special interests of Italy."

While speaking of the league intervention, Mussolini's eyes, the newspaper said, grew angry, and Il Duce asked:

"Can you wonder that Italy should resent the attempt to sacrifice her for the purpose of restoring the prestige of the league of nations which failed to prevent the Japanese occupation of a Chinese province, or a war that was waged between two of its members in South America? We cannot and shall not draw back."

Troops to Sail Saturday.

The British war office, in its announcement that 1,000 troops will be sent to the Mediterranean, said the soldiers will be dispatched to Malta aboard the British India liner Neuralia, which is now taking on fuel at Southampton. She will sail Aug. 31.

Reënforcement of the strategic Mediterranean island, which now has a troop strength of 3,000, was confirmed a day after announcement from Malta that most battleships normally stationed there would sail Thursday for stations within striking distance of the all important Suez canal, gateway to troubled Ethiopia.

The troops will consist of royal artillery, royal engineer, and royal signal corps units. They are being sent to Malta, the war office stated, because "it is the intention to bring the fixed defenses of Malta up to the establishment approved last year."

Dispatches from Athens said a squadron of British bombers, reported en route to the Sudan, passed over Greece yesterday, stopping at Pylos.

500,000 Italian Troops Begin Sham War; King Sees 'Battle'

WITH THE ITALIAN ARMY, BOLZANO, Italy, Aug. 25.—(AP)—The powerful armies of two imaginary nations sprang at each other at dawn today in one of the greatest war games ever staged.

"Opposing" forces 150,000 strong grappled on this Italo-Austrian frontier, focal point of Premier Mussolini's vast and significant battle maneuvers, under the eyes of their sovereign.

At the same moment 350,000 soldiers went into action on other Italian fronts.

The sun's first rays over the towering Alps found tens of thousands of men, hundreds of powerful tanks, and scores of big guns in action.

From his mountain observatory King Victor Emmanuel looked down upon a huge martial checkerboard, its pieces represented by divisions, battalions, and regiments. Il Duce, too, soon will be at the scene of mimic warfare. From his vantage point the king could see the Alpine peaks that mark the Austrian border.

More Italian Troops Sail.

NAPLES, Italy, Aug. 25.—(AP)—More blackshirt units, bound for east Africa, sailed today from this port.

In the wake of yesterday's departure of nearly 6,000 troops, including Premier Mussolini's two sons, the S. S. Principessa Giovanna embarked today with 1,300 men and 64 officers.

Tribal Chiefs Visit King.

ADDIS ABABA, Aug. 25.—(AP)—Emperor Haile Selassie concluded a ten hour conference with tribal chieftains from the far corners of his empire early today.

The tribal leaders arrived yesterday and met secretly at the palace. The city presented a colorful, almost a medieval, aspect as thousands of white clad, bare headed warriors—retainers of the chieftains—waited outside the palace.

The emperor presided at the conference from his golden throne, furnishing a strong contrast to the fierce feudalistic chieftains, many of whom had never before trod wooden floors. After the conference Haile Selassie went to church, returning to the palace where he spent a quiet afternoon.

Arbitration Hearing Ends.

BERNE, Switzerland, Aug. 25.—(AP)—Italian and Ethiopian representatives remained far apart today as the conciliation and arbitration commission dealing with the Ualual border dispute heard the last of Premier Mussolini's witnesses.

The commission, which has only six days left to bring in a decision under league of nations instructions, wrangled over the territorial question which theoretically had been eliminated from its consideration. One Ethiopian member, however, said "it's impossible to throw the question out of the minds of the conciliators."

Italian testimony brought out that Mussolini's officers arrived at the scene of the Ualual fight only after the shooting began, it was said. The Ethiopian conciliators brought no witnesses to the commission's meeting, depending on twenty foreign statements to refute Italian claims that Ethiopian soldiers were the aggressors at Ualual.

The commissioners planned to leave tonight for Paris, where they will attempt to draft a decision. One member said Nicholas Politis, the fifth member or "umpire," "undoubtedly would be called upon to break a two to two deadlock.

American Radiator Conditioning Systems are a development of the world's largest makers of home comfort equipment. They are backed by over 40 years of experience and by unexcelled engineering facilities. They provide every element of comfort by means of equipment that is practical in operation and reasonable in price.

For winter, each room has its individual heat source, which cannot be affected by outside temperature or winds. Heat is evenly distributed and sent to each room according to the room's requirements. Fresh air is brought into the house from out of doors. It is washed and filtered first, then tempered and its humidity brought to a comfortable, healthful level. Then it is gently circulated, without overheating and without stuffiness.

But whether or not you use the heating, you can have continuous conditioning.

And in addition, the system provides bountiful hot water. And if the system you select includes automatic firing, you have summer hot water without extra equipment.

All the features of American Radiator Conditioning Systems are described in an interesting booklet called "This New Comfort." The coupon will bring your copy to you. NAZI LEADER HITS CATHOLICS; CALLS THEM 'ENEMIES'

Seeks to Crush Spirit of Old Centrist Party.

BERLIN, Aug. 25. — (AP) — Coincidentally with the conclusion of a conference of Catholic bishops at Fulda, the Westfaelische Landeszeitung of Dortmund, the official Nazi organ for Westphalia, challenged "political Catholicism" today to mortal combat.

The newspaper, published in a section of western Germany where the proclamation of Gen. Hermann Wilhelm Goering July 18 for the strict enforcement of decrees against political Catholicism" aroused much irritation, branded such political activity "the state enemy of today," underlining the word "the."

Old Centrists Are Attacked.

Wilhelm Meister, Nazi chief for the district, wrote in the paper that the spirit of the Centrists' party was very much alive and that "it is necessary to remind the nation that open treason to the people once flourished in Centrists' ranks in a thousand forms."

Meister emphasized it was not the church as such he attacked, but "the spirit of the old Centrist party."

Meanwhile, it was reported clashes between the Catholic Youth and Hitler Youth groups in Catholic sections of western Germany were mostly the result of attempts by Nazi authorities to force the former into the Hitler Youth ranks.

The popular anti-Jewish battle cry of "racial turpitude" was invoked by the reich Nazi women's labor front to induce maids to leave the service of Jewish households. There is now a shortage of domestic help.

Five Jews Imprisoned.

The Nazi organ, Der Angriff, alleging hundreds of "pure Aryan girls" have been morally corrupted by Jewish employers demanded German girls be barred by law from serving in Jewish families.

Secret police at Baden reported eight new cases of "racial turpitude" and the consequent sending of five Jews to concentration camps. One Aryan woman "who refused to admit she had done anything wrong" was being held in custody.

A pronouncement by a Berlin provincial court was believed by legal circles to be calculated to drive Jewish attorneys from practice. The court ruled that, although it is still legal, nevertheless it is undesirable for a Jew to appear as counsel.

Philip Fueglein of Mainburg, Bavaria, was taken into custody for "telling scurrilous stories about Reichsfuehrer Hitler, Goering, and Paul Joseph Goebbels, minister of propaganda, which were likely to disturb the peace."

Guests in Beer Hall Rap Hitler Rule; Owner Jailed

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

FRANKFURT-ON-ODER, Germany, Aug. 25.—The proprietor of a beer hall was arrested here today by secret police because he permitted guests to make utterances "inimical to the state" and failed to report them to the secret police. A warning was issued, especially to beer hall owners, that they will be imprisoned and their licenses canceled if they tolerate "political agitators on their premises or fail to denounce them."

SAVE BABY LODGED 18 FEET DOWN IN WELL AFTER 2 HOUR BATTLE

Rock Island, Ill., Aug. 25.—(AP)—Rescuers won a two hour battle with death here today when they extricated a 20 months old baby from an 18 inch drilled well into which he had fallen while playing.

The child, Walter Harvey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Harvey, farmers near Milan, was lodged 18 feet below the surface of the ground.

While firemen pumped oxygen into the well opening neighbors dug a trench leading to the child. The baby tumbled into the opening head first. His father, witnessing the accident, tried desperately to grasp the baby's clothing, but he fell beyond his reach.

Physicians who examined the baby said he had suffered no ill effects.

PARTNER SHOOTS POLICEMAN AS 2 CHASE A SUSPECT

Policeman Edward Donovan of the Chicago avenue station was shot accidentally in the right leg, the bullet fracturing his thigh bone, by Policeman William Gaughrin while the two were chasing a suspect yesterday.

The policemen, members of a flivver squad, were notified by J. E. Eberhart, 755 North Dearborn street, that he had been robbed of $500 near Chicago avenue and Dearborn street. He pointed to Charles Vavido, 25 years old, 735 North Clark street, as the man who took his money after they had met in a nearby tavern. Vavido was fleeing north in Clark street when the police began their chase.

Near Chestnut and Franklin streets Gaughrin fired several shots in the air in an attempt to halt Vavido. He was climbing a fence with his service revolver in his hand when it was discharged, shooting Donovan, who was behind him.

Vavido was captured by other policemen who joined the chase. The money, thrown away during the flight, was recovered.

Asks License Revocation for Cochrane Death Tavern

Capt. William Russell of the Grand Crossing police was preparing a report to Commissioner Allman yesterday, asking revocation of the license issued to the tavern at 721 East 75th street, in front of which Attorney David Cochrane Jr., 27 years old, was shot to death early Tuesday. The tavern is operated by Mrs. Elsie Anderson. Meanwhile police had failed progress in their investigation of the mysterious slaying despite lengthy requesting of witnesses.

Takes Up Baton and Finds 2 Musicians Have Escaped

Mansfield, O., Aug. 25.—(AP)—When the leader of the Mansfield reformatory band took up his baton after an intermission in a public concert today he found his trumpet player and drummer missing. Guards and police searched tonight for John M. Fisher, 23, sentenced in January, 1934, for burglary, and John Juhasz, 18, sentenced in March, 1934, for robbery.

Bullet Pierces Bobcat, Goes On and Kills Girl of 7

San Bernardino, Cal., Aug. 25.—(AP)—Seven year old Carol Ann Barry, a gifted pianist, was killed today in a strange shooting accident in Swarthout canyon. Some hunter shot at a bobcat near where Carol Ann was playing. The bullet pierced the bobcat and sped on, striking the girl in the head.

ROTC, ALREADY BIGGEST IN U. S., TO BE DOUBLED

11,000 in High Schools Here to Shoulder Arms.

When the enrolment in the Chicago public high school junior Reserve Officer's Training corps is increased from 5,500 to 11,000 students next month the corps, which has led the country in size since its establishment, will greatly outdistance all other high school military groups, according to Col. C. A. Thuis, in charge of R. O. T. C. activities in the Sixth corps area. At the request of the Chicago board of education, the war department is increasing the R. O. T. C. here from 17 high schools units to 28.

The war department recently assigned Col. William A. Morrison, field artillery, as director of the corps here. Previous corps chiefs have held the rank of major.

Biggest From the Start.

Military training groups in Chicago schools have outnumbered those in other cities since 1916 when the first cadet corps was established here. In December, 1915, when the world war brought a demand for military preparedness, Chicago leaders began a campaign to establish a cadet corps in the Chicago schools. THE TRIBUNE conducted a poll of parents of high school students and 87 per cent of the parents declared themselves in favor of some form of military training.

In May, 1916, the board of education, who joined the chase. The money, thrown away during the flight, was recovered, which has led of schools, announced that it favored the establishment of military training and arranged for Capt. Edgar Z. Steever of Cheyenne, Wyo., to command the organization. Capt. Steever, previously detailed to instruct the Wyoming national guard, helped establish military training in Cheyenne high schools.

Outfitted by Business Men.

The first Chicago high school volunteers were outfitted in 1917 with gray cadet uniforms purchased from funds contributed by business men. In the same year 3,000 rifles were received by the new student cadets and military drill was begun.

Frank L. Beals, then a lieutenant and the commandant of the Northwestern Military academy at Lake Geneva, Wis., was placed in command of the Chicago boys. Eventually he was retired with the rank of major and now he is assistant superintendent of schools in charge of physical training.

In 1917 the school board made military drill compulsory and increased the corps to 14,500. Because officials considered the unit too large, the war department reestablished it as a junior R. O. T. C. and trimmed its personnel to 3,000 students. In 1923 the cadets were increased to 5,300.

Aid to Student Morale.

According to William J. Bogan, superintendent of schools, schools with R. O. T. C. units enjoy better school spirit and morale than schools without cadets. James M. McCahey, president of the board of education, has praised the work of the R. O. T. C. in saying, "We have less difficulty with communistic and subversive influences in schools with R. O. T. C. groups."

Take Well Dressed Body from River; Blame Suicide

The body of a well dressed man, 50 years old, apparently a suicide, was taken from the river near Polk street yesterday afternoon. All identifying marks had been removed from the clothing. Police at first thought he had been shot, because there was what appeared to be a bullet hole in the back, but post mortem examination disclosed there was no shot wound and that probably death was due to drowning.

WAR MANEUVERS REVEAL TROOPS SERIOUSLY WEAK

Need Training, Equipment, Officers Find.

Pine Camp, N. Y., Aug. 25.—[Special.]—Serious and startling deficiencies in equipment and officer personnel, and insufficient training, particularly of National Guard troops, have been revealed in the last week during the first army maneuvers here.

Army officers here, from "shave tails" to generals, seem agreed that the army's greatest need is more training, particularly field training such as the present maneuvers. Also are needed more officers to administer that training, more and better trained "noncoms" for the backbone of the enlisted personnel, and adequate equipment.

2,000 More Officers Needed.

Maj. Gen. Dennis E. Noland, director of the maneuvers and commanding general of the first army, declared the army needs tanks, a continuation of its mechanization and motorization program, a continuation of the air program to acquire newest type planes, the establishment of an adequate ammunition reserve, and 2,000 more officers.

The much heralded raid by the tanks yesterday against the blue battle line revealed a startling weakness, officers said.

The five tanks that participated are about the only serviceable tanks in the entire army. Others—all of a world war type—were in use until a few months ago, but because of obsolescence and the large amount of money required for their upkeep and operation, congress ruled they were unserviceable and they no longer can be used.

Guardsmen Need Training.

The "battles" of the last week have shown that the guardsmen particularly required training in field exercises. The Guardsmen have shown a fine morale, and seem well-grounded in their individual duties, but their team work often has been deficient, said officers.

Their communication methods and equipment are, in most instances, ineffective or obsolete, and they are in no sense ready at short notice, it is thought, to take their places in the fighting lines of a modern army.

Officers here generally feel that an increase in the officer personnel is necessary, despite the recent promotion bill. The increase of the enlisted personnel to 165,000 and the vital necessity of well trained officers, not only to train the new recruits, but also to assist in National Guard, R. O. T. C., and other training, is held to be vital.

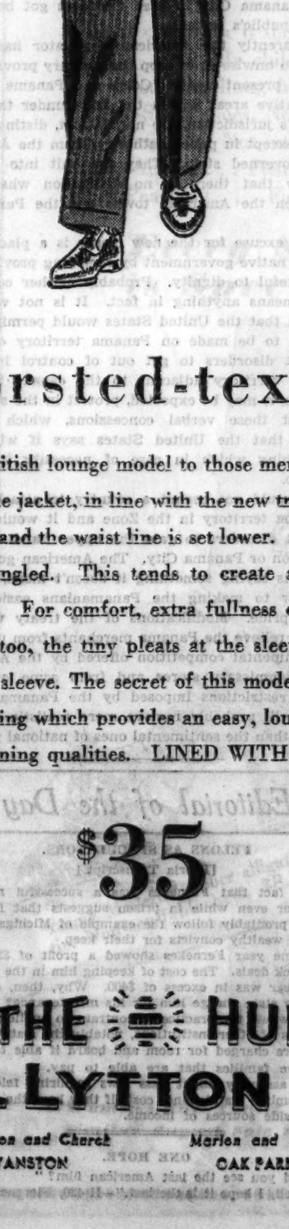
THE BRITISH LOUNGE MODEL



in Worsted-tex Suits

We introduce the British lounge model to those men who prefer a touch of individuality. The jacket, in line with the new trend, is a trifle longer than current models and the waist line is set lower. The lapels are wider and more sharply angled. This tends to create an illusion of width across the shoulders. For comfort, extra fullness of fabric is provided at the chest. Note, too, the tiny pleats at the sleevehead and the trim English taper of the sleeve. The secret of this model, however, is in the softly moulded tailoring which provides an easy, loungey "feel" together with rare shape-retaining qualities. LINED WITH PURE CELANESE.

"The Newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and lead public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."—Chicago Tribune.

CONTROL OF THE PURSE.

The previous congress having voted the New Deal dictatorial powers over money, credit, banking, and security markets, there was comparatively little left for the administration to ask for in the line of financial legislation from the first session of the 74th. And in its request for new financial laws the New Deal did not always get what it wanted. Probably one of the reasons for this was the particularly poor impression which the secretary of the treasury, the financial head of the government, made upon congressional committees. When asked to be specific he would reply that the subject was beyond his training and experience. The average congressman and senator, who generally admits that he knows nothing about finance, was made to feel that he was as well informed as the financial head of the government.

The outstanding new law relating to finance is the banking act. As drawn by the administration it would have wrecked the federal reserve system and conferred dictatorial powers upon a man of small experience. The effort to destroy the system of autonomous district rediscount banks was defeated by Senator Glass, a former secretary of the treasury, author of the federal reserve act and the leading exponent of sound money and sound banking in Washington. The bill as passed eliminated the secretary of the treasury and the controler of the currency from the reserve board; denied authority to the treasury to unload new bonds upon the reserve banks, and gave the reserve board increased authority over discount rates and reserve requirements. It set up an open market committee on which are to be five governors of the district banks in addition to the seven members of the reserve board, whose recommendations on sales and purchases of government securities by the federal reserve banks are to be mandatory. On the whole it is probably a good bill, especially gratifying because it was the means by which a very bad bill was defeated.

The New Deal is partially successful in getting a tax bill through congress, but at a great cost to itself. In the closing weeks of the session the President asked congress to enact a tax law designed to punish the rich rather than to produce revenue. It was the purpose to get the bill passed without discussion by June 29. But the steam roller broke down. And this was disastrous. For in the course of the discussion it was developed that to produce the revenue adequate for present expenditures taxes must apply to people of small incomes, and Senator La Follette actually proposed a tax which would hit incomes as low as $800 per year. The La Follette amendment was not included in the bill, but it served to warn people who were not before aware of the fact that when the debts incurred by the New Deal are paid the people of small means will have to pay a large part of them. Corporation taxes were increased by the bill and the present estate tax scale was revised upward. The inheritance tax feature which the President sought to have imposed in addition to the estate tax was rejected.

Having bitterly denounced wealthy persons for seeking to reduce their tax liability by investing in tax exempt bonds, the President urged congress to submit an amendment to the constitution terminating tax exemption. In this case congress declined to follow Mr. Roosevelt's bidding. Eliminating tax exemption meant increasing federal revenue at the expense of higher borrowing costs for local governments. Congressmen are subject to too much pressure from back home to do that.

In the destruction congress spreads throughout the republican forms of government any checks which are administered must be individual achievements. A fighter like Carter Glass can win against odds through his own superior intelligence and patriotism. In a renegade legislative body some ground is being held in finance against collectivism which elsewhere is pushing forward.

LAUGHING WATER—AND GAS.

Bernard B. Robinson, for Associated Gas, introduced the senate lobby investigating committee to the lighter vein. He told how he did his work. The man in the green hat, whose favorite place of getting arrested was the capitol steps, is not needed in these days of post-prohibition, but a drink of liquor is still a snort or a snifter or a spot. "Come up to room 1020" will still get every one within hearing. It got Mr. McIntyre, the White House secretary. It got Mr. Robert, assistant secretary of the treasury. It got national committeemen, senators, members of the house of representatives, and brain trusters.

Mr. Robinson would move in. He would open one of the suitcases and call down for cracked ice. His place of business was then ready for good fellowship. Washington will go anywhere there is a drink or a meal. Mr. Robinson also made the acquaintance of various stenographers and office employés just to learn what effect the fan mail was having on the congressmen. He himself could study the effects of the drinks. A lobbyist leads a merry life. Mr. Robinson is a Chicagoan. We should know more about him at home.

EPIC'S HAPPY LANDING IN ALBERTA.

The hardy folk of Alberta have voted themselves an Epic. Unlike California, they were not stopped on the ten yard line but went over. The bone and sinew plunged for the Social Credit league, and its leader, William Aberhart, school teacher and evangelist, has gone to town. He'll probably be premier. California has enough sinew but not enough bone, although Mr. Sinclair and Dr. Townsend will take heart. What Alberta did California may still do.

Social Credit in Alberta has a long root. It goes back to England, being a derivation from the economic ideas of Maj. Douglas of the Royal Air force. It is an adaptation of the Douglas plan, of which it may be said that it lacks the indorsement of the classical economists.

The Social Credit league members of the provincial parliament are pledged to give every adult citizen a credit of $25 a month. Each gets a dividend book of certificates which are legal tender to be cleared through a state credit house. How they go on from there could be clearer. There are 750,000 people in Alberta; 400,000, it is estimated, are qualified for the twenty-five bucks a month. The first month's operation would require ten million dollars and the present annual revenue of the province wouldn't last out a week. It would seem that there is a good business opening for a wizard in Alberta and he'd better be a whiz.

Maj. Douglas uses a variant of the Marxian constant and variable capital. If A and B represent the total proceeds from the output of goods and service—A that portion going to the users of the goods produced and B to the means of production or elsewhere—it will be found that the share A tends to be insufficient to buy what is made and at times ruinously inadequate. The normal is poverty, the periodic is collapse of the system, involving everybody in the crash. From this starting point argument is joined, debate engages, and the economic schools of the right, left, and center go to it.

The bone and sinew of Alberta having penetrated to the truth of the issue, voted that twenty-five bucks is twenty-five bucks and should be forked over. Greetings to the Canadians. Who's loony now?

THE PANAMA TREATY.

A new treaty with the republic of Panama has been negotiated in conferences between a commission from the republic and Sumner Welles, assistant secretary of state in charge of Latin American affairs. When a few minor details have been adjusted the agreement will be signed for ratification. It is intended to supplant the one of 1903.

In the new document the United States continues its abandonment of protectorship which was begun in the surrender of responsibilities in Cuba and the general withdrawal of the Monroe Doctrine. At present the United States guarantees the independence of Panama, and it retains the right not only to enforce sanitary laws in Panama territory within the Canal Zone, but, if necessary, to send its forces in to preserve order.

Under the proposed treaty the United States would eliminate the guaranty of independence and also the right to police the towns of Colon and Panama City in case disorders got beyond the republic's forces.

Apparently the American negotiator has not been so unwise as to drop the sanitary provisions of the present treaty. Colon and Panama City, the native areas within the Zone under the republic's jurisdiction, are not, in fact, distinguishable, except in police authority, from the American governed strip. They are knit into it so closely that there is no distinction whatever between the American towns and the Panamanian.

The excuse for the new treaty is a placating of the native government by removing provisions distasteful to dignity. Probably neither concession means anything in fact. It is not within reason that the United States would permit any attack to be made on Panama territory or let violent disorders to get out of control in the native territory adjacent to the canal. There will be, it may be expected, protest in the senate against these verbal concessions, which only mean that the United States says it will do something which in case of necessity it will not do.

It would not permit a country to attack the Panama territory in the Zone and it would not permit disorders to gain the upper hand either in Colon or Panama City. The American government is saying something it doesn't mean, with a view to making the Panamanians easier in their pride. Modifications of the treaty which would relieve the Panama merchants from unfair governmental competition offered by the American commissary stores and from some of the trade restrictions imposed by the Panama railroad will probably remove more realistic grievances than the sentimental ones of national pride.

Editorial of the Day

FELONS AS SPECULATORS.

[Peoria Transcript.]

The fact that Fernekes was a successful market operator even while in prison suggests that Illinois might profitably follow the example of Michigan and charge wealthy convicts for their keep.

In one year Fernekes showed a profit of $500 on his stock deals. The cost of keeping him in the prison that year was in excess of $400. Why, then, should not the state charge him for his maintenance?

Nor would the practice be contrary to public policy. Inmates of other institutions, notably the state hospitals, are charged for room and board if able to pay, or have families that are able to pay.

The assembly might pass laws requiring felons to pay nominal maintenance costs if they have the money or outside sources of income.

PROMENADE.

The hotel dresses for a summer night.
Tiny blue lights flutter in the trees
Like toy balloons.
On the marble floor slim dancers
Whirl to the orchestra's gay romancing.
A yellow moon hangs low, confident of her beauty,
And in the distance the soft splash of water
Along the beach.
Somewhere are busy streets, screaming actors,
haggard faces,
But here is poetry . . . charm of late summer.

And so I am here among empty tables
Strewn with bottles . . . chairs overturned . . .
Tired waiters shuffle back and forth.
Somewhere loud laughter . . . glasses clinking . . .
The hotel has taken off her makeup for the night.
The moon is leaning on a cloud.
She, too, is weary. Life is like that . . . weary.

WHILE RHL IS OUT OF CITY.

Dear Wake-Line: In the ripsnorting '90s the tribe of slouch hat and cane toting reporters would wigwam every day except Sundays at Stillson's bar, across from THE TRIBUNE, just before sunset. R. H. L. and yours truly were members of this tribe.

One day when the sun had long set and R. H. L. was absent came a hard-boiled, well-oiled collector for a bill for clothing and other gents' furnishings against various members of the tribe, including our hero. Was he plenty tough on several innocent customers we pointed out to him as his supposed victims? But we later squared ourselves by letting him in on several innings.

Before he left we sold him the idea of placing his billy-do for R. H. L. in a pink perfumed envelope addressed to our fellow tribesman, assuring him it would bring results.

The bloke had no more than left when R. H. L. appeared. He spied the pinkie on the cash register, demanded it, and did he get it? After taking a good whiff of it he stepped back and away and opened it boldly. We watched eagerly as he appeared to be reading it; a big smile and sharp twinkle spread over his features. Then, tearing it into fine bits, he carelessly tossed it into a big brass cuspidor and smilingly remarked, "Silly little girl!"

FRONT SEATS, PLEASE.

Wake-Line: Your story of the deaf mute who was given by mistake tickets to the musical festival instead of the All-Star football game reminds me of another experience we had. A mute walked up to the ticket window at the Dearborn street service bureau to secure football tickets. We wrote several notes back and forth. His final note read: "Please have them up close. One of the ladies is hard of hearing." Dave H. Kind.

BEAUTY SALOON.

HTW: Just back from my vacation to the old grind and it occurred to me we ought to call the beauty salon where I work a beauty saloon, because so many of the ladies go away plastered. And, borrowing your own words to Friend Arch, I hope you are the same. E. A. O.

How to Keep Well By Dr. Irving S. Cutter

WHEN NOT TO OPERATE.

IN the very ease and skill with which abdominal operations are performed nowadays lies a decided element of danger. No one will gainsay the importance of removing structures, organs, or tissues that are positively diseased. Yes, we must have the highest skill in surgery, and through timely intervention thousands of lives have been, and will continue to be, preserved. But with skill in surgery must come skill in diagnosis. The prudent surgeon refuses to operate probably more often than he wields the knife.

One noted surgeon all his life kept what he termed his "Calamity Book." In this he recorded notes on all cases not improved by surgery, as well as those cases wherein operation was later shown to have been unnecessary. Needless to say, frequent perusal of the volume made him a better diagnostician.

Unfortunately, there are many good surgeons who are hasty diagnosticians; that is, they lack the ability to visualize the entire picture presented by the patient, particularly the neurotic individual who comes with his mind made up "to have an operation." The patient will say, "I have come for a gall bladder operation," or "to have my uterus removed," and too often the obliging surgeon agrees with the patient's diagnosis and the operation is performed. In entirely too many cases all the symptoms return within a few weeks, and a second operation may be demanded to assist the first. Some patients have been operated upon many times for vague or fleeting symptoms, and even boast of numerous abdominal scars.

Appendicitis can and does occur in people who are overfatigued, overworked, or on the verge of "nervous breakdown." But such persons are unusually prone to describe abdominal symptoms that are seemingly, though not actually, indicative of some surgical disease. If the surgeon, instead of operating promptly, will study these cases for a reasonable period, many will recover without operation, and those that require it will be in far better physical condition.

A very sizable proportion of what are apparently surgical complaints are functional and not organic. I have in mind an extremely sensitive woman in whose case it was necessary to proceed with caution before a careful examination could be completed. There seemed to be sufficient ground for advising surgery. This was finally decided upon, and an eminent gynecologist officiated. The patient readily assented to the operation; in fact, seemed to be tremendously relieved that now "something was being done." That was nearly ten years ago, and the patient has been a constant complainer ever since. According to her story, she has not had a comfortable day, although two or three subsequent operations for the relief of adhesions have been performed. I am now morally certain that this patient should have been more carefully studied. Psychotherapy plus physiotherapy and a good building up regimen should have been the treatment in the first instance, as nothing seriously wrong was found at the time the abdomen was explored.

In a chronic case the surgeon who makes a diagnosis in five minutes, and advises an operation, is, by and large, a danger to the community. Symptoms as detailed by patients must be carefully evaluated; furthermore, they must be checked by every means afforded by the laboratory and the X-ray; and finally a complete study of the patient's surroundings, environment, friends, worries, and fears must be made. Some surgeons may say, "There is trouble in the abdomen somewhere; we will open and see." The disease may not be in the abdomen at all; it may be in the spinal cord, in the lungs, or in the patient's mind.

Strange as it may seem, the person who wants but does not need an operation usually gets it. These patients as a rule are not imagining symptoms. The symptoms are real and productive of pains of one sort or another, but they are not surgical pains, or pains that surgery can relieve.

But lest the purpose of this tale be misunderstood, it must be said that by far the majority of surgeons recognize "operation seekers" and are on their guard against them. We would face a sorry world without the remarkable achievements of skilled surgery.

WHOOPING COUGH.

E. A. M. writes: Is it permissible for parents of a child with whooping cough to visit in another home where there are children? Is there any danger of their carrying the germ? Is vaccine of any value?

REPLY.

Whooping cough is rarely if ever conveyed by a third person. There must be some contact between a susceptible person and one who has the disease. The usual mode of transmission is by minute droplets of mucus expelled in coughing. These may be carried several feet.

Of course, parents should not permit children suffering from whooping cough to frequent public places—movies, restaurants, street cars, shops, etc. There is always danger that the afflicted one will set up a "whoop" in a crowded place where susceptible persons may receive the infection. There is a vaccine that is being tried rather generally and that is considered to have protective value.

APPENDICITIS.

A. D. E. writes: 1. Does vomiting always occur early in an attack of appendicitis?

2. Is medicine of any benefit, or is an operation advisable?

REPLY.

1. Not always.

2. Medicine is useless; in fact, it may do harm. There is only one remedy for the condition, namely prompt operation. The diagnosis is simple. The pain may be in the stomach area or in the region of the appendix, or both. The white cells are increased in number, and the patient is usually nauseated as well as constipated. Operation should not be delayed unless it is certain that the appendix has ruptured, in which case it is often wiser first to permit the abscess to localize.

DEATH CERTIFICATES.

Chicago, Aug. 24.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Must a doctor sign a death certificate, and [2] does a Christian Science practitioner have the same right? That is, if a practitioner signs the certificate, [3] is it necessary to have a doctor sign? O. K. G.

1. We assume that you mean to ask as to your need for his signature rather than as to the possibility of compelling it. Section 8 of the registration of births and deaths act provides: "In case of any death occurring without medical attendance, it shall be the duty of the undertaker or person acting as such to notify the coroner of such death, and the coroner shall thereupon proceed in accordance with the provisions of section 10 of 'An act to revise the law in relation to coroners.'" Section 10 of the coroner's act provides: "In case of any death occurring without medical attendance, it shall be the duty of the undertaker or person acting as such to notify the coroner of such death, and the coroner shall thereupon repair to the place where the dead body is and take charge of the same and forthwith make an examination and preliminary investigation as to the cause of death. If the coroner shall determine from such examination and preliminary investigation that no suspicion of death from violence, casualty or undue means exists, he shall then make the certificate of death and return from the statement of relatives or other persons."

2. No. In our opinion, the Christian Science practitioner is not a "physician."

3. Yes, in the sense that the practitioner's signature is not an adequate substitute for the doctor's certificate so as to dispense with the presence of the coroner. No, in the sense that the coroner may be satisfied without the doctor's signature and without an inquest. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

CORNER HEDGES.

Chicago, Aug. 23.—[Friend of the People.]—Owner of corner property on our street has permitted his hedge on both sides of the lawn to grow about ten or twelve feet high, cutting off the other property owners' view of the street entirely. This also constitutes a hazard, as it is impossible to see who is lurking behind the hedge and likewise dangerous for automobile trafic. Please see what can be done to correct this. C. E. F.

Please be advised that officers visited the occupant of this building and informed him of the danger caused by this growth of hedge and requested him to have the same trimmed. The occupant stated that he had just recently moved into this building, but that he would gladly coöperate with the police and comply with their request. A week later officers again visited this location and report they found the shrubbery had been trimmed so that it no longer constitutes a trafic hazard. JAMES P. ALLMAN, Commissioner of Police.

SUPPORT OF PAUPERS.

Chicago, Aug. 24.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. How much must a son pay for the support of his mother? 2. Does being a government employé change the general rule? 3. Are daughters married and single both compelled to contribute? 4. If the wife is employed does it change the situation? A. T.

1. Sections 1 and 2 of chapter 107 of the Illinois revised statutes provide that proof—persons who are unable to earn a livelihood in consequence of bodily infirmity or other unavoidable cause shall be supported by the following relatives in the order named, if of sufficient ability: [1] children; [2] parents; [3] brothers and sisters; [4] grandchildren; [5] grandparents. But married women are not required to contribute unless they have separate property. Application should be made to the bureau of public welfare in the County building.

2. No.

3. See 1.

4. We assume that you mean the son's wife. If her income is large enough so that the son is not destitute, then this clearly would affect the situation. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

The DEBUNKER

By John Harvey Furbay, Ph. D.

The gigantic Boulder dam is generally believed by people to be in Boulder canyon, Colo. The dam, however, is about twenty miles down the Colorado river from Boulder canyon, and its site is at Black canyon, where the river separates the states of Nevada and Arizona. The dam will be 650 feet high when completed and is said to be the world's largest irrigation project.

HOLC APPRAISALS.

Chicago, Aug. 21.—In this column on Aug. 17 Stanley E. Szarmach made the statement that HOLC "loans are made in many cases for twice the actual market value of the property." Since these loans were made upon the appraisals made by the Chicago Real Estate board, it seems logical that I should correct this statement, because Mr. Szarmach's claim is absolutely contrary to fact.

To prove that Mr. Szarmach is wrong all we have to do is find out what these properties are selling for on the open market. A survey recently published in the magazine Real Estate here in Chicago shows that sixty-four properties that had been refinanced by HOLC mortgages had been sold by their owners. The total selling price of these sixty-four properties was $371,166. The total amount loaned by the HOLC on these properties was $306,181.

In other words, when these sixty-four properties were sold on the open market they brought $64,985 more than the total mortgages on these properties. Each property, therefore, sold for a little more than a thousand dollars more than the mortgage placed on it by the HOLC, which proves conclusively that Mr. Szarmach's statement in his letter of Aug. 17 is absolutely without foundation.

All properties are appraised by competent members of the Chicago Real Estate board who operate in the communities in which the properties are located. Both before and after these appraisals similar and complete inspections are made by the HOLC, insuring a scientific, accurate appraisal in every instance. Loans made by the HOLC are limited to 80 per cent of these appraisals, which again proves that Mr. Szarmach's statements are contrary to fact.

JOHN C. BOWERS,
President, Chicago Real Estate Board.

UNCONSTITUTIONAL LAWS.

Chicago, Aug. 22.—Granting that A. G. McKnight's figures may be correct as quoted in his letter today, might I call to his attention the fact that no Republican congress has ever passed a measure later declared unconstitutional with the idea in mind of overlooking the constitution, or considering this great bulwark of our individual liberty something to be winked at or sidestepped? Every measure passed by Republican congresses and later declared unconstitutional, so far as I can find [after considerable research], was passed in good faith and not with the idea in mind of enacting acts of questionable constitutionality that might slide by the Supreme court in a moment of public panic or clamor.

F. RAY SMITH.

ISLANDS FOR DEBTS.

Chicago, Aug. 22.—In today's editorial, "Caesar and the King of Kings," you stated that America was reminded that the British were a proud people and that the empire was a proud empire when America asked for a transfer of the British West Indies for British war debt.

Why do the Americans crave the British West Indies? What profit will the British West Indies be to America? Why don't you ever hear the Americans asking for the French West Indies?

England is not the only country in the world in debt to America. The Americans are not good colonizers, especially where the people happen to be of a nonwhite race. The temperament of the Americans doesn't very well harmonize with that of the darker races. It is for this reason that the Americans have been failures in every attempt with their colonies in which darker races happen to make up the mass of the population.

The people of the West Indies don't want to change flags, least of all with America. America should ask England for Ireland. Since Ireland is populated with a homogeneous people the American should be very successful. But such possession would be a threat to England and the English would object.

ROBERT BLACKMAN.

HE WON'T STRIKE.

Chicago, Aug. 22.—As one of the relief workers I would like to get some information if possible. What is the American Federation of Labor going to do about feeding us and our families in case of a strike on different projects? I don't want to strike if I have to starve. Will the A. F. of L. guarantee to pay my rent, feed my family, buy coal, pay gas and electric bills? If so, then it will be O. K. with me; if not, then I will work regardless of the outcome. I am not going to stand by and see my family starve. I have been up against this long enough, and now when I can earn a little more, am I going to bite the hand that is feeding me? I should say not. FRANK KLEIN.

ONE LETTER AMONG MANY.

Chicago, Aug. 18.—The writer of this note is a teacher of music and speech in a small town in North Dakota and attended Chicagoland's annual songfest and pageant at Soldiers' field last evening.

Congratulations! You took the ice out of the hearts of many of the people of this city last evening. You are building up a great socializing activity. It is easy to see that the people of your city are hungry for just such socialization. Give them lots more of it, and God bless you. JONES G. GALSETH.

TEXAS' VOTERS GO WET AFTER 16 ARID YEARS

Old Age Pensions Also Added to Constitution.

Dallas, Tex., Aug. 25.—(AP)—John Barleycorn, a furtive fellow in the Lone Star state for the last 16 years, was returned to citizenship today by a quarter million Texans.

Dry leaders who contested the amendment repealing constitutional liquor prohibition admitted defeat as the majority of wet votes cast in yesterday's referendum passed the 50,000 mark.

A constitutional amendment for old age pensions also was adopted by an overwhelming margin.

"Our next battle will be for law enforcement," said Dr. L. D. Young, Dallas minister. He is executive secretary of the United Texas Drys.

"We shall make an appeal for all law abiding citizens to join with us in fighting for law observance and enforcement."

A tabulation today of 440,938 votes from 239 of the 254 counties, 52 complete, showed 259,218 for repeal and 203,869 against.

The repeal amendment makes provision for a system of local option somewhat similar to that in effect before the entire state went dry in 1919. The old age pension vote in the same counties was 365,397 for and 91,864 against.

LEGION OPENS STATE PARLEY BY SERVICES FOR BRIG. GEN. HILL

Quincy, Ill., Aug. 25.—[Special.]—A memorial service in Woodland cemetery at the grave of Brig. Gen. Henry R. Hill, Quincy war hero, killed in action, was a feature of this morning's program in connection with the seventeenth annual convention of the Illinois American Legion here. The service was in charge of William E. Keith, Chicago, secretary of the Thirty-third Division War Veterans association.

Addressing the Legion tonight Gov. Horner attacked "partisan and selfish interests" who, he said, "place political partisanship first and the welfare of the state and nation second."

J. R. Sullivan of Rockford today was elected grand chef de gare of the Illinois "40 and 8." He will succeed Leonard Applequist of Aurora. Others elected were James Anderson, Galesburg, grand chef de train; Walter Whitney, Peoria, grand cheminot nationale; Leonard Applequest, sous cheminot nationale, and Eugene Early, Chicago, grand commissionaire intendant.

The Board of Trade Post band of Chicago for the fourth consecutive year took first place in the band contest. Col. Armin F. Hand is director. Peoria Post No. 2 band took second place and South Shore Post band of Chicago took third place.

MILLVILLE, ONCE CHICAGO'S RIVAL, AN AUTO MECCA

Apple River Canyon Park Fine Day's Drive.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Stockton, Ill., Aug. 25.—[Special.]—A more romantic date line for this story would have been Millville, Ill., a deserted settlement six miles north that rivaled Chicago in size and commercial importance a century ago. But all that remains of Millville is a small cemetery and a brass plate marking it as a station on the Frink & Walker stage route from Chicago to Dixon and Galena in 1837.

The Chicago and Great Western railroad, with its telegraph wires as well as rails built half a century later, in avoiding the limestone bluffs of the Apple River canyon, missed Millville and gave birth to Stockton with its present population of 1,500. Where once stood a tavern, a saloon, a mill, a blacksmith shop, and a group of log cabins is now the Apple River Canyon state park, dedicated as a public playground of 152 acres last year.

Once a Trip of Days.

THE TRIBUNE roadster was driven here today from Chicago, covering the little more than 150 miles in slightly less than four hours. By stage coach, on the overland journey between the thriving mining center of Galena and the unpromising community at the foot of Lake Michigan, it must have been a trip of several days.

On the departure from Chicago about 10:30 a. m. the main highways were crowded with cars leaving for a day's outing on rubber tires. The most popular season for motor touring is waning, but a more comfortable and pleasant season for long days behind the wheel is just starting. The weather, with a clear blue sky, was moderately warm, but there was a refreshing breeze that smelled of autumn.

Goldenrod, daisies, and clover are abloom on the roadsides. On the farms, corn is full grown and small grains are being thrashed. Plow horses, with lopsided slouches, idled in pastures watching the passing cars that have relieved them of any Sunday duties.

The route here was over U. S. 20, one of the state's older pavements with concrete, that will remain a debt for another fifteen years, in need of replacement in many stretches. There are curves too sharp for today's cruising pace and extravagant of mileage.

Sign Shows Park Route.

A mile or two west of Stockton, a sign points down a dirt road to the new state park. It is six and a half miles of bumps and dust from the slab. The Illinois highway department is building a suitable all-weather and dustless gravel connection with the park that should be finished before next spring.

In the meantime, the lack of roads has preserved these 152 acres much as nature left them. The custodian, J. T. Beggin, with relief labor has marked four miles of foot trails over lichen and moss covered limestone cliffs bordering the splashing creek. Much of the distance is through a matured woods with locust, elm, and box elder predominating. It is a recommended week-end outing for Chicagoans who enjoy such things.

News of The Tribune Experimental Farm

By Frank Ridgway

Silage Galore.

August 25, 1935.

ALL of the corn planted at THE TRIBUNE experimental farm this year has made such a rank growth that it is difficult to find striking differences in the various varieties and strains included in the test fields. Over the week-end Clarence Thurow, farm manager, took time out from the thrashing job to take measurements and make observations of the eight different kinds of corn grown for grain in the comparative field tests of four hybrids—numbers 614, 208, 616, and 214—and four established varieties—Western Plowman, Queen of the Field, Will County Favorite, and Krug. All of the corn was planted about the same time, between May 23 and 26.

Mr. Thurow found that Queen of the Field and Will County Favorite are the tallest of the eight. The ears on Western Plowman are the farthest advanced, but it has the fewest ears per stalk. Some of the tips are exposed. Hybrid No. 616 is the most backward. The ears are not yet in the roasting stage. The ears on the other three hybrids and on the established varieties are practically all out of the roasting stage.

The farm manager finds that all of the corn in this comparative test field would make a high yield of silage this particular year, although they are all classed as grain varieties or strains. Will County Favorite and Hybrid No. 616 have the greatest number of leaves, some stalks with as many as 15 blades, indicating that they would produce a good tonnage of silage.

All of the corn in the test field has in the neighborhood of 14 blades per stalk. Several leaves on the Queen of Field are 5½ inches wide; blades 4½ inches in width are common in this variety. Hybrid No. 614 has leaves from 4½ to 5 inches wide.

Practically all of the corn in the test field is standing up well; it has strong brace roots. The plants are nearly all green from top to bottom, although the ears are far enough advanced that Mr. Thurow does not expect any of the grain to be damaged by normal frosts. Well developed ears are common throughout the field and two fairly good ears on one stalk are quite common on most of the varieties and strains.

Stalks of the various kinds of corn averaged from 8½ to 11 feet; hybrid No. 208 and hybrid No. 616 showing the lowest average, 8½ feet. Mr. Thurow found the foliage especially heavy on hybrid No. 614, hybrid No. 616, and Queen of Field; medium foliage on hybrid No. 208 and hybrid No. 214, and medium to heavy foliage on Western Plowman, Will County Favorite, and Krug.

In another field hybrid No. 13, the corn that made the finest showing of any of the more than 20 varieties and strains tested at the Yorkville plots last summer, again tops the list at the farm this year. This strain is being tested on a field basis this year along with hybrid No. 172, which ranked next to hybrid No. 13 last year, and Golden Beauty. All three rank high as silage corns.

These two hybrids and Golden Beauty were planted on the same day, June 8. The present indications are that hybrid No. 13 will yield a much heavier tonnage of silage per acre than either of the other two. While the stalks of Golden Beauty are somewhat taller, hybrid No. 13 has slightly wider leaves.

There are many more wide leaves per stalk on hybrid No. 13 than on Golden Beauty. Both have as many as 16 leaves on many stalks; 15 leaves per stalk are common on hybrid No. 13, and 14 leaves per stalk are common on Golden Beauty.

The hybrids are not yet in the roasting ear stage, while many of the Golden Beauty ears have reached that stage. Most of the stalks in the Golden Beauty rows have only one ear; two ears per stalk are common in the hybrids.

Members of the Greek-American Regular Democratic organization held their annual picnic at the Villa Prasinos in Arlington Heights. The day's program was given in honor of Mayor Kelly.

FIRST OF UNIFORM TRAFIC SIGNS TO BE PUT UP TODAY

The erection of the first of 20,000 standard trafic signs to be used in the Chicago park district will begin this morning under the direction of Otto K. Jelinek, trafic engineer for the consolidated district. The first of the new signs will be placed at Michigan avenue and Jackson boulevard.

A survey of the consolidated park system last year by Mr. Jelinek revealed that 196 different types of stop, slow, parking, and other trafic signs were in use in the 22 park districts. Three thousand of the new standard signs have been received and the installation is to proceed as rapidly as possible.

TWO OF ILLINOIS' U. S. ATTORNEYS GO TO CAPITAL

Two of Illinois' three United States district attorneys left Chicago together yesterday on a trip to Washington. They were Michael L. Igoe of Chicago and Howard L. Doyle of Decatur, whose headquarters are at Springfield.

"So far as I know," said Igoe, "we have been called to Washington merely in connection with the regular business of the department. I know of no special reason for our being asked to come to Washington."

It is believed the discussion may cover some long pending income tax cases.

CHARGE TUGWELL DUPING FARMERS WITH LAND PLAN

The submarginal land buying program of Prof. Rexford Guy Tugwell, undersecretary of agriculture, was denounced as socialistic and as a threat to increase farm production instead of reducing it, in a statement from headquarters of the Farmers' Independence Council of America here yesterday. "Farmers do not generally know that the real purpose of this land buying program is social—not for the economic benefit of the farmers as it is believed," says the statement, which adds that the department of agriculture's own figures prove the fallacies of the plan. "These figures show that 28 per cent or 100,000,000 acres of the cultivated lands of this country are classed as submarginal, that is, land which is too poor to farm at a profit," says the council's statement. "But only 3 1-3 per cent of the total commercial farm products of the United States come from these lands, according to the statistics.

"The program proposes to remove 50,000,000 acres of submarginal lands from cultivation and if this is carried out, commercial farm production would be reduced a little more than 1.5 per cent. Incidentally, this would necessitate the moving of some 4,000,000 people."

Others elected are Constantine Tsangadas of Detroit, vice president; Constantine Economou of Seattle, secretary; Charles Preketes of St. Louis, treasury; L. G. Demopoulos of Providence, R. Louise Parsons Is Engaged to Francis Stanton

Betrothal Is Announced at Dinner Party.

BY JUDITH CASS.

FOR all but their most intimate friends there is genuine surprise this morning in the announcement of the engagement of Miss Louise Parsons, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Parsons of 40 East Schiller street, and Francis Rew Stanton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Stanton of Winnetka.

The news was told first at a family dinner party last evening in Geneva, where Mr. and Mrs. Parsons have taken a house for August. They will return to their town home after Labor day and then begin to make the plans for their daughter's wedding.

Bride-to-Be Promising Young Painter.

It was just last December that Miss Parsons made her bow to society at a tea at the Fortnightly. She is a promising young artist, having had a picture in the recent Chicago artists' exhibition at the Art institute. The last two years she has studied painting in the east. Before this she was graduated from the Girls' Latin school and the Holmquist school at New Hope, Pa. Miss Parsons' brother, Seymour, will be a sophomore at Yale this autumn.

Young Mr. Stanton has a keen appreciation of Miss Parsons' talents, for he was graduated from the Yale school of fine arts last spring and is now a practising architect. All of Mr. Stanton's good friends also know him to be an accomplished musician. He finished in the Yale undergraduate school in 1932 and before this was graduated from the Hotchkiss school.

Mr. Stanton has an older brother, Edgar Jr., who married Rosamund Baker two years ago.

Athalie Caesar Engaged to Arthur T. McIntosh Jr.

At a dinner in his home in Barrington Saturday night Orville S. Cæsar announced the engagement of his daughter, Athalie, to Arthur T. McIntosh Jr., son of Arthur T. McIntosh of Barrington and Kenilworth. The young people gathered in Mr. Cæsar's home were invited ostensibly to celebrate the birthdays of Miss Cæsar and Mr. McIntosh, since they just come a week apart. The guests were not very surprised, however, when Mr. Caesar revealed the real reason for the dinner, because Mr. McIntosh has been Miss Cæsar's favorite suitor for quite a while.

Miss Cæsar attended school in California before entering Northwestern university, where she has been a student for two years. Her family formerly lived in Los Angeles. Mr. McIntosh is a graduate of Northwestern, where he finished a college career begun at Williams.

Dorothy Louise Rogers' Engagement Announced.

The announcement of the engagement of Miss Dorothy Louise Rogers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Alexander Rogers of Cedarhurst, Long Island, to a young easterner is of considerable interest to Chicagoans because her family lived here for years. The news of Miss Rogers' betrothal to Robert Eugene Demme Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Demme of Oceanside, Long Island, is being announced here by her aunt, Mrs. William Tracy Alden of Winnetka and Chicago, who introduced Miss Rogers to the younger set here a year ago.

The bride-to-be's mother was the former Dorothy Edwards, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Edwards of this city, and is a sister of Mrs. William Tracy Alden, Kenneth P. Edwards, and Donald Edwards. Mrs. Rogers was here during July, and when she returned to the east her mother went with her.

Miss Rogers, who attended the Mount Vernon seminary, is contemplating a fall wedding. Her aunt, Mrs. Alden, will be back at her apartment at 1320 North State parkway after Sept. 14.

Roslyn Paine's Wedding Party Is Announced.

A maid of honor and five bridesmaids will precede Miss Roslyn Paine to the altar of the Fourth Presbyterian church the afternoon of Sept. 12, when she becomes the bride of Paul L. Fentress. Miss Virginia Ashcraft will attend Miss Paine as maid of honor, and the bride, who is the daughter of Mrs. Walter Garritt Smith, will have her stepsister, Miss Gertrude Smith, as one of the bridesmaids. The other maids will include Miss Allene Withers, Miss Jean O'Brien, Miss Elizabeth Leake of Richmond, Va., and Miss Dorothy Neely of New York.

Calvin Fentress Jr. will serve his brother as best man, and ushering will be another brother, Dr. Thomas Fentress; Fred W. Fairman Jr., R. Joseph Rich, Robert W. Wood II.,

THE former Alice Kathryn Regan and her bridegroom, Dr. Carlo Scuderi, who were married in Chicago on July 31, will return from a European honeymoon in two weeks. Front Views and Profiles

By June Provines

PARTENKIRCHEN, Bavaria.—A company of youths goes through the street, marching in perfect step, with splendid rhythm. They sing as they go, and their young voices ring through this picturesque town. We have frequently seen these singing youths in Germany. They usually are from the labor camps, the Arbeitdienst, as this branch of the labor service is called. There are more than a thousand such camps in Germany, and German youths must spend six months serving their country on "the labor front." They make roads, drain marshes, cut trees. We were told now it is a compulsory service. Philip Gibbs, in his book published in 1934, "European Journey," says the young men, some 240,000 in the various camps, are volunteers, with the exception of the university students who had made their own ruling that no one could take a degree without serving his six months in a labor camp.

WE have passed a number of such camps. There was one just outside Mittenwald on the shore of a tiny lake. It was early evening when we passed and the boys were in from their day's labor at making a road near by. In the open space between their barracklike encampment some were playing football. Others were swimming in the little lake. They all were bronzed and stalwart youths. A guard in khaki, a hoe on his shoulder, stood guard before the barracks. The hoe, replacing a gun, indicated that this was a labor and not a military camp.

NOT far from Partenkirchen is the delightful pension where the charm of the gnaedige frau who runs it, her comfortable and lovely old furniture and chintzes, her flower garden, filled with delphinium and roses and the beautiful views of the surrounding mountains from the balcony windows draw a number of the same guests there year after year. Katharine Cornell is there now—she comes every year and stays several months, and her dachshund runs about the garden. [Flush, the spaniel, was left behind in America.] Several other interesting personalities are there.

BY ANNA NANGLE.

You might be interested in taking a trip to the Playhouse to learn about poor, weak King Christian VII. of Denmark and his unhappy wife, a lovely young English princess who, in accordance with the custom of the times, was introduced to her dull-witted husband one day previous to their marriage. In juxtaposition to the royal pair we find one Dr. Struensee, a brilliant physician who starts his political career by telling a few plain and much needed truths to a very drunken young man.

Struensee's climb to the premiership, and subsequent downfall, interwoven with the antics and errors of the mentally immature young king and his desperately unhappy queen, provide interesting entertainment. The doctor proves to be a farsighted and intelligent man, almost unbelievably noble, particularly if one can believe that the original Caroline Mathilde was half as beautiful as Madeleine Carroll is in portraying the woman who shares Christian's throne, but offers her heart to the prime minister.

At any rate, there is all the usual jealous throat cutting, the intrigue and machination of courts, and they result in a great deal of unhappiness for the two principal characters, and not much good for any one concerned as far as I could see.

This tragedy is sufficiently engrossing, beautifully set, costumed and photographed and it entertained me mildly for an hour on a hot day.

Miss Carroll is completely adequate, Mr. Williams does a competent job as the weakling king, and Helen Haye is perfect as Juliana, the queen mother, whose nose is out of joint when the young regent artificially gains a sporadic but potent confidence in himself. Clive Brook as the mainspring of the story is capable and restrained and manages to preserve his British dignity in spite of the fact that he wears knee breeches, silk hose and high heeled slippers with enormous bows.

I won't presume to treat on the authenticity of the story, or to say that clinical thermometers weren't invented in Struensee's time, because to me it's just a pretty good movie and not a historical document.

ENGAGEMENT

At a tea in their home at 526 Laurel avenue, Wilmette, Mr. and Mrs. William A. Popp Jr. announced last night the engagement of their daughter, Miss Shirley G. Popp, to Robert Jo Leckner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jo Leckner of 1445 Wilmette avenue. The marriage will take place in November.

Lily Pons Follows Rigid Diet to Keep Her Weight Up to 104

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 25.—[Special.]—Lily Pons, the grand opera singer, is finding her first fling before the movie cameras an arduous task since her company moved to the RKO ranch in the valley, where temperatures soar a bit above what they are in the city.

Ordinarily Miss Pons steps on the scales and pushes the hand up to 104 pounds, and it was at that figure she first weighed in, had all of her tests made and her gowns fitted. Under the hot arc lights and the sun Miss Pons drops about five pounds by the end of each day, which means it is up to her to gain back that much weight in every 24 hours.

So every four hours Miss Pons is served nutritious foods on the set and between these meals, or every two hours, she sips fruit juices. And then she retires every night at 7 o'clock with no time for fun or relaxation. The picture, incidentally, is "Love Song."

Plaids Make Clean Sweep of School Clothes

Youngsters to Wear Kilts to Their Classes.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

September school yards and playgrounds will give the appearance of a complete surrender to the Scots. For the smartest, newest clothes in town are of strong Scottish flavor, especially for the youngsters starting out for school for the first time. Tiny plaid kilts with a vertical line of fringe at the side front have a large chromium safety pin clamped at the knee line.

These kilts are attached to a bodice top with good strong buttons and just as sturdy buttonholes. They are worn with dark colored, long sleeved sweaters, or with smocked white blouses of dimity or broadcloth.

The smocking comes in dark contrasting colors. If you dress little sister in the kilt and smocked blouse you will use a long sleeved cardigan sweater instead of a jacket. For headgear there are berets and tasseled caps in dark blue or red.

Little brother is also appareled in similar Scottish grandeur . . . very brief shorts or pants of the gay plaid wool, simple little long sleeved sweaters and berets. We don't recommend these blazing bits of plaid outfits for any young male older than six, despite their decided picturesqueness as far as mother is concerned. The young men may protest loudly and mutiny may ensue, but the girls will be delighted with such unusual clothes.

Plaids available include prince of Wales, dress Stuart, red Stuart and the Frazier plaid. Besides the simple dark sweaters in blue and navy, there are matching plaid sweaters of the kilts and tiny shorts. Scotch plaid caps and neckscarfs are grand accents for dark outfits in plain one color.

● Barbara Bischoff, Illinois, insists that for youthful smartness this crisp cellophane taffeta is the thing!

60 YEARS OF DEPENDABLE FUR VALUES

The Husband Snatcher

By Elizabeth York Miller.

SYNOPSIS.

After two years of marriage, Nancy and Dick Heritage are still greatly in love. Though Nancy is hated by her mother-in-law, Edith Heritage, she has come to live with them in their little house in Primrose Dene, near London. There is a gap of four years in Nancy's life which she has not satisfactorily accounted for. Nancy is informed by Mr. Sam Digger, attorney, that she has been bequeathed £5,000 by Miss Agnes Satchell, late governor of a girls' reformatory, where Nancy had been committed for four years. Nancy had been employed by a Mrs. Lane and was accused of theft. Sylvia, Mrs. Lane's daughter, was the real culprit. Sylvia threatened to kill herself if Nancy exposed her. Nancy foolishly took the blame, though she possessed a signed confession from Sylvia. Miss Satchell believed in Nancy's innocence. Nancy learns that her sole remaining relative, an aunt, has been killed in China. Dick and his mother are displeased when they learn that Nancy is expecting a baby. Edith Heritage invites a friend, Mrs. Lane, and her daughter, Sylvia, for tea. Nancy pleads a dentist's appointment. The Lanes arrive just as Dick comes home. They are startled when they see Nancy's photograph, but Sylvia, who is interested in Dick, explains that Nancy had lived with them and they'd had a misunderstanding, but bygones were bygones. Next day Sylvia calls on Dick at the architect's office where he is employed, asks him to plan a house for her, and boldly invites herself to his home for dinner. Sylvia assures Nancy that her secret of the reformatory is safe. She asks Nancy for the written confession, but Nancy tells her she had torn it up. Sylvia's new home is started and Dick spends most of his time with her. Nancy learns that she has inherited a small legacy from her aunt. Mr. Digger suggests that she pass the two legacies off as one. He also offers his help if she is ever in trouble. Nancy returns home unobserved and overhears Sylvia begging Dick to get a divorce. Mrs. Heritage has gone away for a week-end with Mrs. Lane.

A DISDAINFUL GODDESS.

"Good heavens!" said Dick. "O, I say, Nance—who left you a fortune?"

"You remember my Aunt Laura and her family? Well, I expect I was the only relative they had left. This Mr. Digger heard from a lawyer in Shanghai, and it appears I am to inherit their whole estate."

"And it's a lot of money?"

"Somewhere around £5,000," Nancy replied.

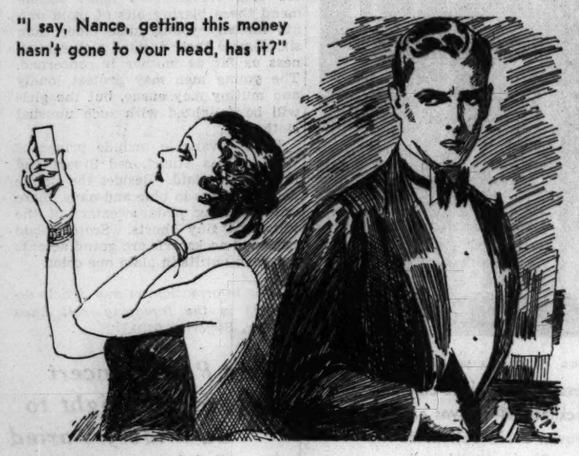
"Phew! You stagger me. I didn't even know that missionaries ever had a bean. Had you any idea of this?"

"Not the faintest," said Nancy.

It was all just as easy as Mr. Digger had said it would be; but most of Nancy's facility was due to the fact that she was thinking of something of far greater importance to her own happiness than the wealth of the Indies. She hardly cared that she had all that money.

She discovered, too, that the absence of her mother-in-law, far from being the welcome relief she would have thought, had a disturbing effect on her consciousness. What she really needed just now was a barrier between herself and Dick.

It was disturbing, also, to know that Edith Heritage and Mrs. Lane would undoubtedly be putting their heads together about her. Could Mrs.



Lane resist the temptation to tell Dick's mother what she believed to be true? Emphatically, if she received encouragement.

Dick did not press for specific details concerning Nancy's interview with the junior partner of Messrs. Farebrother, Lightfoot & Digger, but the fact that she had fallen heir to such a sizable little fortune threw him into a jocular mood and for a little while he failed to notice the cold, almost disdainful way his wife was treating him.

"Are you going out to dinner?" she asked, as he was struggling into the coat.

"Am I?" he retorted. "I didn't know I was."

"It looks like it. You haven't worn that suit since the night your mother arrived."

Dick looked pensive. "No more, I have. As a matter of fact, I intended to go into town later on this evening. A chap at the club . . . now for goodness' sake, Nance, don't start imagining things!"

"I didn't say anything."

"No, but you gave me a 'Gordon' look! It's enough to freeze a fellow's marrow."

Why hadn't he mentioned Sylvia's name? Not once—and this was about the first time he had omitted to chatter about her since he and Sylvia had been running around together. It was significant.

"Well, is my rich wife going to buy me a meal?" he asked. "It's the slavey's night out, isn't it? Are we going to make whoopee all alone?"

"If it wouldn't bore you," said his rich wife.

"I say, Nance, getting this money hasn't gone to your head, has it?"

Nancy laughed, and the sound of it was anything but mirthful.

"I don't think so. In fact, I'm sure it hasn't."

"Have you got any money—I mean cash in hand?"

"Heaps, thank you."

"That's a blessing, because I'm just about broke. Do we run to a taxi?"

But no; Nancy did not want to be alone with Dick in the intimacy of a taxicab. He might try to put his arm around her and if he did that she knew she'd lose herself completely.

Why—why—why didn't he mention Sylvia Lane's name? If she mentioned it herself, she knew it would sound forced, dragged in by the ears.

"We might as well take the tube," Nancy heard herself saying. "It will be quicker. But let's go to an expensive place where there's a crashing band."

"Great idea," Dick agreed. "I take it this is to be a bit of a celebration."

"Yes—we'll celebrate," said Nancy.

Dick knew his way very well about the West End, although Nancy was scarcely acquainted with it. Before his father died there had always been plenty of money to supply the wherewithal for merrymaking, and Dick, himself, had supplied the inclination.

It was into his former world that he took Nancy that night. The head waiter of the exclusive little restaurant knew him, and recalled him as though it were yesterday.

In Nancy's opinion it probably was yesterday, or no further back than last week. No doubt he had been here quite recently with Sylvia Lane.

That night Nancy was looking her best, not her worst as of late, and glances of admiration stole in her direction. She read it in her husband's eyes. The same old story! When she was beautiful he thought he loved her.

"Isn't that a new dress you've got on?" he asked.

"Fairly new. I haven't had a chance to wear it before."

He began to pay her extravagant compliments in the manner of one trying to propitiate a disdainful goddess, and to Nancy's way of thinking he was making a clumsy business of it. Still he said nothing about Sylvia, nor did he refer to the fact that tomorrow was his birthday.

In a grim way, Nancy began to enjoy herself. She was acting a part no less than Dick; "keeping him guessing," as the saying is. Every young husband has gone through that harrowing experience, when the superpoliteness of his wife informs him that he is not far removed from being a criminal.

Nancy laughed at his jokes, made small talk, discussed in an amused way the appearance of people at the other tables, and comforted herself in general as though Dick and she were scarcely more than acquaintances.

Afterwards she danced with him, and it was like dancing with a stranger.

She was telling herself as dispassionately as she could that it was as a stranger she might soon be obliged to regard him.

There was no way at all he could pierce this armor of determined politeness; and, indeed, Nancy played her part so well that at times Dick doubted whether he was not mistaken in feeling she secretly had something up her sleeve against him.

When the cabaret came on he looked at his watch, a little furtively, and Nancy stifled a pretended yawn.

"You'll be wanting to get along to your club now, won't you?" she asked, showing him that she could take a hint good naturedly.

"Well—I suppose I ought to, but it seems a shame to drag you away. You're enjoying this, aren't you, sweetheart?"

"You can leave me here," said Nancy. "I'll be perfectly safe."

But Dick's sense of the proprieties was shocked by such a suggestion.

"You wouldn't be safe alone anywhere, darling. You're much—much too beautiful. That old bald head over there, for instance, has been paying far more attention to you than to his food. For two pins I'd punch his head for him."

Nancy laughed, as was expected of her.

"If you feel that way about it, of course I'll go. What time are you going to meet your friend?"

"As a matter of fact, I said 9:30—didn't know we were going to have this little spree—but he'll wait. It doesn't matter if I'm a trifle late."

"You haven't far to go, have you? Your club is in Pall Mall, isn't it?"

"Yes—er—yes, of course," Dick replied, a slight flurry in his voice.

Sylvia Lane's flat was in Pall Mall, too, and from that uneasy note Nancy knew only too well that she was on the right track.

Annual Health Audit Is Aid to Every Child

Slight Physical Fault May Cause Maladjustment.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Those mothers who feel that their children are in average health are apt to discount the value of the annual health audit.

But there are many things, slight or otherwise, that healthy children can have the matter with them, and that need correction.

Let's take the eyes, for instance. There was the child who was so clumsy that he stumbled over his feet, fell often, fumbled with his toys, spilt milk, and so forth. Eventually it was found, after a physical examination, that his eyesight was so defective that he couldn't see accurately or gauge distances.

There was the child who, although exceedingly bright, had great trouble with academic work. She came of parents who were talented intellectually and artistically. She obviously had a fine mind, but scholastically she was behind for her age. When things became so bad that she was almost unable to go ahead with her homework, she was taken to a specialist. After many kinds of tests it was found that she had double vision.

A boy may be perfectly healthy and yet have a slight weakness in the arch of the foot which, if not corrected with proper shoes when he is young, may mean more serious trouble later.

A slight heart murmur, discovered early and properly handled, may disappear entirely if a physician's advice is followed.

The first twenty years are the formative years, those in which physical tendencies are to be curbed, when defects may be remedied, when deficiencies may be compensated for. After twenty a person is pretty much "set," and it is more difficult to change the mold.

We owe it to the children to start them on their life's journey in as fine a physical condition as we can. Before they start school is an especially important time for a thorough going over.

We have a list of reading references on the physical care of children which we will be glad to send on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

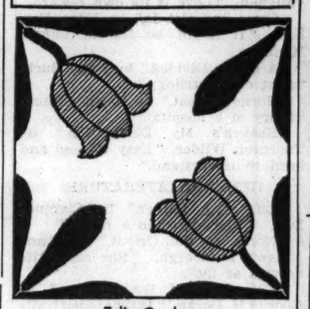
Simple Applique Quilt Suitable for the Novice



Tulip Garden

BY NANCY CABOT.

Any time of the year is the right time to start a "Tulip Garden" quilt. This block is one of the simplest appliqué patterns in the quilt field. It is the kind any novice needle worker may attempt and carry through to successful completion without great work or worry. It is the kind of a block the experienced quiltmaker works on to utilize her various patches from previous quilts.

Patterns of this design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, One South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

By P. HAL SIMS

NO FINESSES.

My cousin Edgar is not strictly a "finessephobe" or a "finessephile." He can take finesses or leave them alone; but it must be admitted in the strict interests of accuracy that my cousin Edgar would far rather leave them alone. He remembers an occasion—on July 4, 1926, it was—that three finesses worked for him. Working backward and forward from the memorable date, however, his life has been one long succession of queens taken by kings, jacks taken by queens. The grand slam contract on the following hand was perhaps a trifle overoptimistic. Only an avoider of finesses could have made it.

NORTH
♠ A-10-9-8-7
♦ None
♣ A-K-Q-5

WEST
♠ 6-4-3
♥ Q-10-5-2
♦ K-8-6-2
♣ 10-2

EAST
♠ 5-2
♥ None
♦ J-10-9-7-4-3
♣ J-9-8-6-3

SOUTH
♠ K-Q-J
♥ K-J-8-7-4
♦ A-Q-5
♣ 7-4

The bidding:

NORTH	EAST	SOUTH	WEST
1 Sp.	Pass	3 Sp.	Pass
7 Sp.	Pass	Pass	Pass

East opened the jack of diamonds. Here was a chance for what was undeniably a free finesse, but my cousin Edgar disdained it. He went right up with the ace, cashed two clubs, trumped a club in dummy and proceeded to run down all his trumps. That left this situation:

NORTH
♠ None
♥ A-9-6
♦ None
♣ Q

WEST
♠ None
♥ Q 10-5
♦ K
♣ None

EAST
♠ None
♥ None
♦ 10-9-7

SOUTH
♠ None
♥ K-J-8
♦ Q
♣ None

The queen of clubs is played and a heart discarded from the board. Throw what he will, West cannot stop the grand slam.

It was demonstrated that seven spades can be made, but I dare say that most teams would arrive at the neat but not gaudy contract of six hearts. The bidding might go:

NORTH	EAST	SOUTH	WEST
1 Sp.	Pass	2 Ht.	Pass
4 Cl.	Pass	4 Sp.	Pass
5 Ht.	Pass	6 Ht.	Pass
Pass	Pass

The only question is the trump suit. I hope that South will make the conventional safety play, since he can afford to lose but one trump trick. If he lays down the king from his own hand he will lose only one heart trick, no matter how the outstanding trumps are divided.

NORTH

SOUTH

Naturally, four spades, doubled and redoubled, can be made.

and several young men from the east who were classmates of the bridegroom at Princeton. They will include William Peterson and Brewster Barr of New Jersey, Gerald Smith of Long Island, Robert Graham and Arthur Gray of New York, and Edgar F. Rulon-Miller of Philadelphia. Mr. Peterson will remain in Chicago for another two days after the Paine-Fentress wedding to serve as an usher for Sidney G. Johnson, who will take Miss Josephine Templeton as his bride in Lake Forest on Sept. 14. Miss Templeton is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth S. Templeton.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith will give a wedding reception for their daughter and Mr. Fentress at the Woman's Athletic club, where the bride was presented to society two years ago. Mr. Fentress, who is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Fentress of Hubbard Woods, and his bride will make their home in Philadelphia, where he is engaged in business.

Mary Brainard Anderson's Attendants Announced.

Another lovely early fall wedding will be that of Miss Mary Brainard Anderson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Brook Anderson of Highland Park, who will change her fate and fortune, but not her name, on Sept. 4 when she marries Henry J. Anderson. The wedding will take place at 8:30 in the evening in the Trinity Episcopal church in Highland Park, and will be followed by a reception at the home of the bride's parents.

Miss Lizette Anderson, the bride's sister, will be maid of honor, and the bridesmaids will be three former classmates of Miss Anderson's at Dana hall, Miss Marcia Frame of Reading, Pa., Miss Frances Stern of Greensboro, N. C., and Miss Priscilla Ray of Boston, Mass., and also Miss Jane Hart and Miss Janet Willard of Highland Park, and the bride's youngest sister, Miss Margaret Anderson.

William H. Fetridge of Evanston is to be best man, and Frank Lennox of Oak Park, Brooke Willis of New York City, Earle Harrison and James Griswold of Evanston, and the bride's brother James are to usher.

Bridegroom-to-Be Is Ex-Grid Captain at N. U.

Miss Anderson is a granddaughter of Ira Brainard and a niece of William Weaver Heaton. She and her fiancé both attended Northwestern university, where he was a member of Beta Theta Pi fraternity, and captain of the football team in 1929. She was a member of Delta Gamma.

Parties for them started yesterday with the cocktail tea given by Miss Virginia Jefferies of Highland Park. On Thursday Miss Jean Williams will give a dinner party at the Exmoor club, and on Friday Frank Lennox will entertain at a dinner at the Tavern club. The following night will be John D. Allen's dinner party at the Edgewater Beach hotel and on Sept. 2 Miss Ruth Griswold's cocktail party. The bachelor dinner will be held at the Union League club and the spinster dinner in Highland Park.

Dorothy Louise Wood to Wed Next Saturday.

Concluding the numerous engagements and weddings this month will be the wedding next Saturday of Miss Dorothy Louise Wood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Sheldon Wood, to Chester E. Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Johnson of Oak Park. The ceremony will take place at 4:30 o'clock at Christ Episcopal church in Winnetka, and will be followed by a reception at the home of the bride's parents at 845 Locust street, Winnetka. Dr. E. Ashley Gerhard is to officiate.

The only attendants will be the bride's sister, Marjorie, who will be the maid of honor, and Lawrence Johnson, brother of the bridegroom, who will be best man. Miss Wood attended the Monticello seminary and the National College of Education. Her fiancé attended Dartmouth college and the Kent School of Law. After a motor trip to Miami the couple will make their home in Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. John Roderick Rogers of Au Sable Forks, N. Y., are receiving congratulations on the birth of a son yesterday morning in Au Sable Forks. Mrs. Rogers is the former Peggy Glidden, daughter of Henry L. Glidden of New York, formerly of Highland Park. Her marriage to Mr. Rogers took place two years ago in Highland Park. The baby is their first child.

Any one who drops into the offices of the English Speaking union these days will want to linger to examine a most attractive little reproduction brought back from England by Miss Grace Telling.

It's a miniature duplicate of the royal coach—gilded, of course—and drawn by the famous Windsor grays with the postillions alongside. The horse guards mounted on their shiny blacks are in the rear.

Miss Telling explains that a man 80 years old made the coach and horses. Each figure was molded separately of lead and in a sand cast. The whole reproduction came from a little shop in the Burlington Arcade in London where Mrs. James Ward Thorne has found many of her delightful miniatures.

Simplicity Value in House Frock

WOMAN'S HOUSE DRESS.

This smart house dress is surprisingly easy to make, and is easily slipped into when finished. There are only two parts, front and back, with short sleeves and tie strings that are formed into a bow at the center back. There is a short, bound slash at the center back of the neck, and the neck and sleeves are finished with ruffles. Take one of the patterned, woolly type of cottons to make this charming day dress, and make the collar and cuffs of organdy or lawn in white, or repeat one of the colors in the print.

The pattern, No. 2854, comes in sizes 37, 39, 41, 43, 45, 47, 49, and 51 inches bust measure. Size 37 requires 3¼ yards of 35 inch material, with ½ yard of 35 inch contrasting.

BY MARY MEADE.

Jellied consommé probably is going to be a great deal more popular than the same food, served temptingly hot, for some little time. That's why we're finally getting around to airing our opinions on three more fine canned consommés that jelly themselves right in the can. You still have time to try them before the snow flies.

These three all are the products of one manufacturer's art. Depending on your preference, you may choose a jellied beef consommé, a chicken one, or another whose flavor is a delightful blend of chicken and tomato.

Like the other canned, jellied consommé we mentioned some time ago, these three ask several hours of chilling before they are opened. If you're really in a hurry to serve them sooner than that, after their arrival from the market, however, we find that the time may be shortened to as little as twenty minutes or a half-hour. In the latter case you'll want to open the tins immediately and pour the soup into the freezing trays of your refrigerator for really quick chilling.

While our favorite of the lot is the chicken and tomato combination [not only has it a grand flavor but it's a lovely color], you may equally as well prefer the full flavors of the beef or chicken. All three are most artfully seasoned.

Of the three the beef consommé [at least among those cans we've tried] seemed to jelly most firmly. It actually had to be spooned out of the can in quivery slabs. The tomato and chicken reached what, for us, is the peak of perfection in jellied soup—almost firm, and beautifully tender. But we seemed to have trouble in getting the chicken to jell sufficiently for our tastes. Maybe you won't agree with our standards, however, and actually will prefer the consistency of the chicken.

You may, of course, prefer to change your mind at the last minute, should a cool autumn rain whip up, and serve your consommé hot. In that case we're sure you'll enjoy their excellent flavor fully as much as when chilled.

Using the consommé as the base for jellied vegetable, meat, or chicken salads is another boast of its versatility. While the maker's directions advise one to combine the contents of each can with a half teaspoon of granulated gelatin [in which case don't forget to heat the consommé], our own feeling is that it's necessary only for the chicken and chicken-tomato varieties. A fine, firm salad of the jellied beef consommé around diced veal, cooked peas, and celery came out of our refrigerator without a hint of added gelatin.

Prairie Avenue Home to Become C. Y. O. Center

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

Social splendor may have characterized Prairie avenue in the Victorian day, but vivid contrast is the theme of its modern story.

Many of the handsome graystone mansions now are rooming houses. Publishing houses and engineers have taken over some of the more fortunate houses. The Architects' club has made its headquarters in the home that once belonged to W. W. Kimball, the piano manufacturer. Four early families, Mrs. Philo A. Otis, Mrs. Robert B. Gregory, Mrs. John E. Jenkins, and Mrs. W. J. Watson, still cling to their early residences.

Now into this motley picture another contrast is entered. Mr. and Mrs. Edwin L. Lobdell have given their handsome three story stone house at 2716 Prairie avenue to the Catholic archdiocese of Chicago.

In the early autumn, the house will be equipped as a headquarters for some phase of the work of the Catholic Youth organization. It will be known as the Edwin L. Lobdell memorial.

The gift is especially interesting since the Lobdells are not adherents to the Catholic faith. When they moved from the Prairie avenue house last spring after 30 years' occupancy, they planned to have the building razed. But when it came time for the demolition neither Mr. and Mrs. Lobdell nor any of their family could bear the thought of doing away with the structure.

Frank J. Lewis, a knight of St. Gregory and one of the city's most generous Catholics, has been one of Mr. Lobdell's closest friends for years. To him Mr. Lobdell made the suggestion that the house might be used for some charitable enterprise and through him the gift was made to the archdiocese.

In their present apartment at 70 Cedar street Mr. and Mrs. Lobdell have installed much of the furniture and some of the lighting fixtures they used on Prairie avenue. Even before they lived on Prairie avenue they were identified with the neighborhood, for Mr. Lobdell and his bride, who was Annie Philpot, went to housekeeping a few blocks away in the spring of 1884.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

When and if you get bored with the sight of your finger tips in their usual coat of enamel in the usual shade, you can do some experimenting that will prove fun, and profitable, too. You'd be surprised at what chic effects you can get if you do a skilful bit of polish blending.

The most conservative of the two polish combinations, and one that's tremendously attractive, is worked out by using a first coat of a white pearl polish. When this is thoroughly dry you apply the second coat, in a medium shade, and be sure you use enough polish so that it flows readily and without pressure. The effect is charming, all pale and pearly and feminine. It's entirely suitable for day or for evening.

If you're a dark polish fan, buy a platinum polish to use in combinations. A first coat of platinum, then a Chinese red gives a rich, warm effect that's a little softer than vivid polish alone.

There are really endless combinations you can work out if you set your mind to it. A bit of bronze [there's such a polish, you know] under a Chinese or tomato red is surprisingly smart. ELEANOR NANGLE.

Dance Masters Learn Piccolino and Manhattan

Cross over steps and point-and-draw movements will lend their flourishes to ballroom dancing in the coming season, by edict of the Chicago Association of Dancing Masters, which convened yesterday at the Congress hotel for seven days of advanced instruction. The association has a national membership of 450.

The Piccolino dance of Ginger Rogers and Fred Astaire in the motion picture "Top Hat" will prevail in modified form on fall dance floors, according to Thomas Parson of New York, an instructor at the convention. Its characteristic pattern is: Point left to the side with the left foot; draw the left foot back; take three quick steps forward, starting on the left foot; repeat, starting with the right.

"The Manhattan," which is to be introduced at the convention by Parson, begins with three quick steps forward, a side movement with the left foot and a cross over with the right foot, the right leg swinging with knee bent slightly.

The dance patterns this year, according to Parson, are applicable to almost all rhythms.

"Most people are wary of the tango, but its current modified form is little different in step patterns from the waltz and fox trot," he said.

Leisure Is Secret of Keeping Loveliness Through the Years

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

A line caught my eye while I was reading a book the other day.

"A great beauty always is leisurely—that is, if she remains beautiful."

A world of beauty wisdom in that line!

How many beauties have you and I seen who've let themselves be caught in the maelstrom of nerve tension, hurry, excitement chasing, and paying for it all in loss of their old charms?

This rest business for women is another of those beauty worlds which the majority of us has to conquer. Even if we have to grit our teeth and fight ourselves for an hour's leisure now and then! To get to bed earlier nights! To systematize our day so there won't be that incessant round of nothing accomplished but frayed and harried nerves. We just must train ourselves to ease up on this strain. Business women as well as other women.

The business woman's working day is a disciplined one. She doesn't have to go at a breakneck speed in most jobs today. But her noon hour may, and often is, one hectic, mad rush from shop to shop, and her dinner and evening hours another mad concession to the demon haste. This business woman is the one whose looks matter terribly if she has to keep on working after youth has fled.

Our plea, however, is for all women to try to take a more leisurely attitude toward their work, their committee meetings, their luncheon hours, their days, and their evenings.

Just as much will be accomplished, never fear. More, in all probability, for there is no time waster like the person always on the run as if the devil were on her trail.

Amelia Sears Named Chairman of Addams Birthday Memorial

Miss Amelia Sears has been made chairman of the memorial meeting for the late Jane Addams to be held here Sept. 6, the birthday anniversary of the founder of Hull House. Announcement of this selection was made yesterday by Miss Louise Weir of Washington, D. C., representative of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom, of which Miss Addams was the founder. Fifty leaders of civic, public welfare, social service, and church groups will attend a meeting tomorrow noon at the Central Eleanor club to complete arrangements for the memorial. According to Miss Weir, who is in Chicago, the memorial service probably will be held in Grank park.

POLICEMEN STEP ON OWN TOES IN BIG SHOWUP

"Well, that," said Deputy Chief of Detectives Walter Storms, wearily mopping his brow, "should have been on a vaudeville stage instead of in the detective bureau."

He was referring to the weekly showup of prisoners yesterday, which involved almost everything from false alarms that sent armed squads galloping about the corridors to the sight of policemen and witnesses locked in cells and 380 pound prisoners falling off cell bunks.

Starts Innocently Enough.

It began shortly before noon when two witnesses were taken to the third floor lockup of the police building at 11th and State streets to view three prisoners—Donald Eberle, John Pleyer, and Charles Gordon—who have confessed to 500 holdups and a murder in Cleveland.

Sergt. George Wragg admitted the others to the large detention cell, then locked the door, snapping the key neatly in two as he did so.

Sympathetic fellow policemen on the outside offered many amusing suggestions while Eberle, Pleyer, and Gordon chuckled maliciously, but it was no use. The door was not opened until Francis Connors, secretary to Deputy Chief Storms, arrived nearly an hour later with a duplicate key.

Calm—Then a Real Uproar.

Later, at the showup, Eberle admitted that he killed Albert Wesocki in a Cleveland holdup April 11. Eberle and his companions are held also as suspects in the slaying of Kenneth A. Morrison, assistant controler of the Chicago park district. Ballistic tests on a .32 caliber pistol found in their possession will be made today.

About the time that Eberle was telling of the slaying of Wesoski bells began to clang wildly on the eleventh floor, where the main lockup is located. Buzzers sounded in offices. The signals were all that a general jail break was in progress on the eleventh floor.

Rough on the Witnesses.

Policemen dashed into the halls. Squads, hastily formed, charged upstairs with machine guns and tear gas bombs. Terrified witnesses milled about the third floor.

Then somebody found out it was all a false alarm and the bells and buzzers had been sounded by accident. Everybody came back to the showup and listened to the story of W. A. Coleman, one of the 200 prisoners, who is charged with passing bad checks at the Sherman hotel.

Mr. Coleman weighs 380 pounds, and was recently shipped back here from Washington, D. C.

He first demanded that the bunks in the cells be made wider, because his bulk would not allow him to sleep long without falling off. He did admit his size had one advantage—his captors had to take a compartment for him on the trip from Washington, since he wouldn't fit in an ordinary berth.

After that, everybody called it a day and went home.

SHIP STRIKERS VOTE TO ACCEPT PEACE PROGRAM

Camden, N. J., Aug. 25.—(AP)—Employés of the New York Shipbuilding corporation at a mass meeting tonight decided to accept President Roosevelt's plan for settlement of their 16 week old strike.

The strikers adopted a resolution calling for resumption of work at the Camden shipyard Wednesday morning if the corporation also accepts the arbitration proposal.

The vote was taken by the raising of hands at a meeting attended by about 2,500 employés. Approximately fifty voted against returning to work. The settlement plan provides for immediate resumption of work, with restoration of strikers to their jobs as rapidly as possible.

CUBS WIN, 5-4; DROP GIANTS TO SECOND PLACE

ALL-AMERICANS TUNE UP TODAY FOR SCORING DRIVES

GROOM KOSTKA FOR CRASHES INTO BEAR LINE

30,000 Tickets for Game Remain.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The All-American football players this morning will begin on their three-day tuning up for the battle Thursday night against the Chicago Bears at Soldiers' field. The days of scrimmage are over. From now on, all efforts will be directed to timing the All-Star attack and to perfection of plans by which it is hoped the Bears will be held without a score.

Yesterday was vacation time. The boys sought relaxation at Comiskey park, where the Yankees and White Sox entertained, at the beaches, or merely in earnest loafing. This is part of the plans of the coaches, who are certain that a squad which is eager to play will have the drive necessary to win from professional football's greatest eleven.

Timing, Then Speed.

The All-American attack must be timed perfectly. Timing, indeed, is the key to success for the Notre Dame system of shifting backs and ends. Emphasis now will be placed on the momentary blocking which opens a narrow passage for the backs. Through these openings the All-Stars expect to parade for gains. The key to the attack, after timing is perfected, is speed. Moreover, the half backs, because of their excellence, should be as effective to the right as to the left.

Stan Kostka, Minnesota's thundering full back, ably supported by Buzz Wetzel, of Ohio State, and Inky Wotkyns, of Southern California, are the ball carriers on important spin plays into the line. When not carrying the ball, their blocking is all important to the other backs. They also are protectors when pass signals are called.

A Battle Guaranteed.

Two weeks of practice have produced a hard charging team with adequate support from a second and third team. There is no doubt that the All-Stars will be ready for the test between collegiate football and professional football.

For this reason, Thursday night's game departs from the standard ordinarily associated with all-star teams. This will be a football contest, not a parade of stars. Thirty thousand tickets for this scrap are still available. They may be purchased at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and in the lobby of Tribune Tower. They are priced at $1.65 and $1.10. If you wish to see the best football game of the year you can't afford to miss Thursday night's spectacle.

The public service offices will be open each night until 10 o'clock. Mail orders, in the office of the ticket manager, Room 530, Tribune Tower, will be accepted until tomorrow.

400 Writers See Game.

One hundred and five newspapers were associated with THE TRIBUNE in the national polls which chose the members of the All-American squad and their coaches. National interest, therefore, is intense. Hundreds of fans are planning to attend from out of town centers. Special trains will be run to Chicago from Illinois and mid-western cities. The game will be reported by more than 400 sports writers and every university and college in the central states will be represented by coacher or athletic directors.

The professional players are more concerned with the result, if this is possible, than the college men. Last year's scoreless tie was regarded as a reflection on the caliber of play in the National league. Consequently

GETTING UP SPEED FOR BEARS

Ray Fuqua Ready to Match Skill as End Against Hewitt

BY HOWARD BARRY.

The manager of the Hinman house, headquarters of the college All-Star football team, stood on a high bank overlooking the Northwestern university beach.

"There's Ray Fuqua," he said.

The manager's companion, a TRIBUNE reporter, surveyed the sands with anticipation. Having heard of Fuqua's exploits as one of Southern Methodist's greatest ends, he expected to see a dynamic fellow turning handsprings and cartwheels or at least throwing a medicine ball with pitiless vigor at some luckless stooge.

Proves a Kindly Giant.

But no such stimulating sight met his eyes. All he saw was a blue infinity of sky and water, across which white gulls and white sails moved lazily.

But wait! What was that massive, immobile figure stretched at full length upon the sands, looking like some gigantic bronze which Michelangelo might have cast and called "The Sleeper"?

"That's him," nodded the manager reassuringly. "That's Fuqua."

Knowing that human beings in general do not like to be disturbed when comfortable, the reporter approached the prone figure with some trepidation. But Fuqua proved to be a kindly giant, who arose to extend a cordial greeting with just a suggestion of a southwestern drawl.

Transformation Takes Place.

As soon as he stood up, it became apparent that the recumbent figure in bronze had not been a true representation of Ray Fuqua, the football player. He was transformed immediately into the alert fellow the football fans will see Thursday night when the college All-Stars meet the Chicago Bears at Soldiers' field.

It's just as well, perhaps, for Fuqua to spend a certain amount of his time lolling on the ground now, because he plans to spend most of Thursday evening on his feet breaking through to break up Bear passes or turning their running plays back into the line.

Draws Hewitt as Foe.

Fuqua will be in a conspicuous spot in the game, for he probably will be playing opposite Bill Hewitt, generally considered the greatest end in pro football. Of course, the assignments of the ends do not bring them into personal contact with one another to any great extent, but the proximity of Fuqua and Hewitt will make a comparison of their play inevitable.

Matching skill with Hewitt is a

DEAN BROTHERS PITCH CARDINALS INTO FIRST PLACE

St. Louis Wins Pair from Dodgers, 10-3, 6-1.

Brooklyn, N. Y., Aug. 25.—(AP)—The Dean brothers pitched the Cardinals into the National league lead today as they defeated the Brooklyn Dodgers in both games of a double-header, 10 to 3 and 6 to 1, before a crowd of 30,000.

The victories, coupled with the Giants' loss to Chicago, put the Cards a half game ahead of New York, which had held the lead since April 27. The Cards swept the five game Brooklyn series to extend their latest winning streak to eight.

History and Deans Repeat.

St. Louis, a month ahead of last year's schedule in moving to the front, did it much in the same way that they raced past the Giants near the close of the 1934 season to win the pennant. Last September the Dean brothers bore down against Brooklyn to hurl a double shutout, Dizzy yielding three hits and Paul turning in a no hit game to carry their club along.

Dizzy and Paul were less impressive today, but had no trouble winning. Dizzy coasted through to his 22d victory of the season in the opener, although touched for ten hits. The Cards blasted Johnny Babich out of the game in the second inning and pounded Emil Leonard to score five runs before Rookie Tom Baker halted the attack. Jim Collins hit his 20th home run of the season in the fifth.

Earnshaw Puts Up Battle.

George Earnshaw gave Paul Dean a struggle in the second game, but Paul proved the better stayer, yielding eight hits over the full route. The Dodgers didn't score until the eighth, when McCarthy tripled and [illegible] on Taylor's double.

The Cards went ahead in the third on Durocher's double, Martin's single and steal and Frisch's hit. They added three more [illegible] when Davis singled and [illegible] and Martin hit double [illegible] scored Frisch with [illegible] the seventh.

WHITE SOX BEAT YANKS, 6-3; THEN LOSE SECOND, 6-1

Whitehead Allows Only 3 Hits in Opener.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Johnny Whitehead, who worked long and faithfully at his bending exercises while the Washington Senators were in town, emerged from his gymnasium yesterday and did a magnificent job of three-hit pitching while he and the Whjte Sox trimmed the Yankees 6 to 3 in the first game of the first of four double-headers the teams will play at Comiskey park. News of the second game is not so cheering, for Vernon Kennedy and the lads weren't so hot, and Chicago lost, 6 to 1.

Between games the Sox were back in third place, but when the day's work was finished they were in fourth. The Boston Red Sox had jumped over them from fifth to third and the Cleveland Indians crawled under them from third to fifth.

43,000 See Games.

A crowd of 43,000 witnessed the contests under perfect weather conditions. It was the first great crowd of the year that wasn't either washed home or threatened by rain.

Whitehead rang up his twelfth victory of the year and his second straight after losing eleven out of fourteen. He yielded a double to George Selkirk which drove in two gents who had walked in the first inning and didn't allow another hit until Selkirk nicked him for a triple at the outset of the seventh inning, after which he scored the final Yank run on an infield out. The other hit was a futile double by Ben Chapman in the ninth. Johnny Allen suffered his fourth defeat as compared to 12 victories. He was touched for 12 hits.

Gehrig Whacks No. 24.

In the second game Kennedy suffered deep chagrin when Gehrig, who had been fanned twice by Whitehead in the first game, opened up with his No. 24 homer. Fuzzy things happened thereafter and before Vernon could get his feet back on the ground the Yankees had chased across four runs. And four runs are a lot of runs to spot Charley Ruffing, who was acting as chairman of the Yank proceedings. Even so the Sox threatened in the later innings, but either made mistakes on the base lines or Simmons, in one of his slumpful moods, came to bat.

FIRST GAME

Whitehead in the first inning of the first game had a brief spell of wildness. He started things by walking Combs. Rolfe lined to Simmons and Dykes made a great play on Chapman's bouncer to get Chapman for the second out. Whitehead

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 25.—The Giants, National league leaders since April 27 except for a couple of hours on July 23, were forced to surrender their lofty perch today while 21,454 of their own mourners looked on. They surrendered partly because the Cubs whipped them in the final of the series, 5 to 4, and partly because the champion Cardinals, running wild in Brooklyn, carried off two games of a double-header.

Knocking off the leaders for the third time in the four game series didn't improve the Cubs' immediate prospects for closing in on the Cardinals and that's the team that is serious about the pennant business. The Chicagoans went into their season's final fight here today, trailing the Giants by three games and the second place champions by two games. Now the Cards are setting the pace with a half lap edge over the Giants and a two and one-half game margin over the third place Cubs. And less than eight weeks ago [July 2] the Giants were coasting out in front of the field with a nine and one-half game lead.

Hand Schumacher 9th Defeat.

In the day's dash to victory, incidentally their seventh in the last eight games with Bill Terry's weary troops, the Cubs bowled over none less than the great speed balling Hal Schumacher for his ninth defeat of the year. The great one assisted at his own funeral with a protracted spasm of wildness. He was gone after six innings, but that was long enough for him to roll up six passes and commit one wild pitch. Four of the passes and the wild pitch were involved in the scoring of the four runs registered by the Cubs in the fifth and sixth.

Bill Lee, not much of a puzzle for the Giants this season, beat them for the first time, although absent before the finish line was reached. He was well on his way to his 14th victory in the seventh when Augie Galan misjudged a fly ball and let two Giants clatter over the plate, leaving Lee with an edge of one run. Then, when the tall southerner was greeted by a hit to start the eighth, Manager Grimm popped up with a choice bit of master minding. He let Larry French take a hand long enough to get left-handed hitters out of the way. Then Lon Warneke came in for the eighth and breezed through to the finish.

Cub Defense Helps Lee.

Defensively and offensively the Cubs did right well even though helped considerably by Schumacher's erring aim. Their defense carried Lee along in the first five innings when he met up with trouble in various forms but yielded only one run, this being Mel Ott's 29th homer. The assistance appeared in the shape of three double plays. As far as the hitting was concerned Chuck Klein and Jim O'Dea probably were standouts. O'Dea drove in the only Cub run not involved in passes and later singled to drive in another. Klein's contribution was three hits, two of them leading to runs, and an infield out that scored another.

Gifts from the enemy put the Cubs in a spot to make progress as early as the first inning, but they couldn't solve Schumacher for the needed hit. Galan opened with a pass and would have been out at second on Herman's grounder to Jackson if Koenig hadn't dropped the throw. Klein sacrificed and O'Dea walked, filling the bases. The Giant speedballer then tightened up. Demaree fouled to Terry and Cavarretta lifted a foul that Jackson took.

MRS. MARS BACK THIS WEEK FROM RACE HORSE SALE

Spends $94,550 on Little Shopping Trip.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Bringing to a close the most astonishing shopping trip ever to have been made by a woman to the thoroughbred yearling auctions at Saratoga Springs, N. Y., Mrs. Ethel V. Mars will return to her home in Oak Park late this week.

Through two weeks of spirited bidding against most of the turf wealth of America she bought twenty-five of the choicest yearlings offered. She paid a total of $94,550 for them. Mrs. Mars not only purchased more young horses than any other individual at the sale, but also bought the highest priced yearling to go under the auctioneer's hammer. This was a son of Victorian-Grief offered for sale by Charlton Clay of Kentucky. He cost her $13,000.

Never Loses a Bid.

Mrs. Mars did all her own bidding and didn't lose out in a single contest. She actually spent little time at the sales, appearing in the sales ring only when some young horse she particularly fancied was scheduled to be sold. After she had made her purchase she departed just as suddenly.

While the amount she spent for these well bred yet untried young horses is indeed a large one, two horses which she bought in the same sales ring a year ago probably will have earned that amount for her this year. They are Forever Yours, the 2 year old filly champion of the season which already has earned in the neighborhood of $50,000, and the colt The Fighter, which right now seems to be headed for the 2 year old championship. The Fighter has won four of his five starts and will have opportunities before the season ends of earning upwards of $100,000, while Forever Yours may pick up another $25,000 before she goes to winter quarters.

18 Sires Represented.

In making her record breaking purchases at Saratoga Mrs. Mars showed no particular partiality to any sire. Eighteen of the most noted sires in the country are represented in her purchases, which are as follows:

TERRY AND THE PIRATES—AH THERE, BEAU RYAN!

DICK TRACY—Stir Crazy

All-Americans Tune Up for Scoring Drive

George Halas, coach of the Bears, who was in Chicago yesterday, reported that he never has seen his team so aroused as they are for this game, not even on the eve of the championship battle last December with the New York Giants.

Determined to Even Up.

Halas was decidedly irked by the decision to play this game under the college forward passing rule. While his men can do nothing about this decision, they are determined to prove that passes, after all, are a poor substitute for line smashing and end runs. By these means, rather than passes, the Bears hope to conquer.

Maybe the intensity of purpose will not be reflected in game tactics, but unless we miss our guess, the Bears will perform with complete disregard of those rules by which a college eleven performs. By this we mean that forward passes will be thrown on any down in any portion of the field. The usual dogmatic rules of attack will be disregarded.

This possibility has been discussed by the All-American coaches Consequently the defense has been warned repeatedly not to rely on the idea of down and distance to be gained will forecast the professional play.

Masterson at Quarter.

Carl Brumbaugh, star quarter back of the Bears for the championship years, will be missed, but in Bernie Masterson, a tall, agile, passing quarter back from the University of Nebraska, who last year was a member of the All-Stars, Halas thinks he has found a successor to the former Florida player. Incidentally, Brumbaugh was coached at Florida by Charley Bachman, one of Frank Thomas' assistants in handling the All-Americans.

After all, there is no difference in professional and collegiate play in the making of tackles and blocks. After three years of experience these All-Americans can tackle. And they can block. The additional years of experience the pros have had have not made them any better in these fundamentals.

There you are. This game will offer the finest exhibition of fundamentals. When the boys hit, they'll hit hard. Take a look at it. You won't see anything like it during the 1935 season.

MR. HALAS GIVES BEARS JOLT WITH SPEECH ON STARS

Pros Warned of Rivals' Speed, Kicking.

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Delafield, Wis., Aug. 25.—Coach George Halas called the Chicago Bears together after practice today and told them just what they will be up against when they battle the college All-Americans at Soldiers' field Thursday night. Here's how Halas sized up the situation:

"The collegians will out kick us from 10 to 20 yards on every exchange of punts.

"The collegians are much faster than any team we have met, including last year's All-Star team.

"This year's All-Star team is two touchdowns better than last year's.

"One mistake in assignments may be the difference between victory and defeat."

Warns of All-Stars' Speed.

Halas' words left the players no room to doubt that their showing in practice has been unsatisfactory.

"Nichelini and Shepherd are faster than Cliff Battles," he told them. "If Hutson gets half a foot start on any of our secondary defenders when he goes down for a pass it will be a touchdown. Sobrero is one of the greatest kickers of all time, and if he is not in the game Shepherd and Munjas will be there to punt us into a hole.

"There are two things that we must do to win: Outcharge the All-Stars and know every assignment perfectly when we step on Soldiers' field next Thursday. If we do this, we have an even chance to win. If we fail to outcharge them from the first play to the last, we will be beaten. We were lucky not to get whipped last year, because we allowed the collegians to charge us out of the stadium every play.

"Any man who does not charge next Thursday probably will never have a chance to charge for the Bears again."

Orders Written Exam.

After he had laid down the law to the laggards and demanded greater concentration on assignments in the next three days, Halas ordered a written examination in which each man was required to set down his part of every play as the signal was called.

Today's practice, which was held at 11 o'clock in the morning to thwart the crowd that gathered in the afternoon, revealed some improvement in the execution of plays in dummy scrimmage. This was particularly true of pass plays, which, however, have been satisfactory to Halas for a week. Masterson, Feathers, Pollock, Sisk, and Corbett threw long spirals to Hewitt, Karr, and Mooney, indicating that the Bears will rely heavily on this mode of attack.

Drill on Defense.

Defense was discussed in today's lecture and dummy scrimmage on this department of play will be held tomorrow. There will be no more scrimmage or other heavy contact work, and practice will be limited to one drill with a lecture in the evening, tomorrow, and Tuesday. Wednesday morning Halas will hold another long blackboard drill, after which the squad will board buses after lunch for the trip to Chicago and the final workout on Soldiers' field Wednesday night.

Dr. Dave Woodward, trainer, who took care of Bronko Nagurski and Jack Manders during their years at Minnesota, joined the squad today. Dr. Woodward found most of the injured men on the way to recovery, but prescribed changes in treatment for several in the hope of getting them in the best possible condition by Thursday night. He concentrated his efforts on Gene Ronzani, Nagurski and Karr, three regulars who are hampered by bruises and bumps received early in the training period.

Chicago Party Reports Catch of 46 Muskies

BY BOB BECKER.

Reports of good fishing in the north country continue to contribute to the records for the month of August. Although we have heard of just one or two very large muskies being taken from northern lakes, Illinois anglers combing the Lake of the Woods and the Hudson, Ont., area are managing to connect with enough fish to make things interesting.

Whether the record muskie of 58 pounds will be thrown out by a larger catch still is unanswered, but every muskie fisherman knows that 'lunge of that size are not easy to find on every trip.

Try the Lake of the Woods.

Two wild extensive areas for muskie fishing are recommended to the angler who is figuring on a trip this fall. One is the Lake of the Woods region and the other is that cluster of lakes near Hudson, Ont.

A Chicago party [made up largely of dog and field trial enthusiasts, including Fred H. Farnsworth and William Walker] invaded the Sabaskong and Miles bays area of the Lake of the Woods recently and caught 46 muskies during their cruising trip. There were eleven in this party—one of the largest fishing parties to go through the Lake of the Woods section this season.

In addition to muskies, this group of anglers, like others who visit that lake region, caught bass, wall-eyes and great northern pike. The Lake of the Woods thus offers an all around trip. One can cast or troll for 'lunge one day. Then a day can be had with the small mouthed bass, because there is excellent fishing up there for this game fish.

Guides Prefer Muskies.

Of course, wall-eyes do not count for much up there in the Canadian lake country, unless you want a few for the camp table. When we fished the Lake of the Woods area our guides were interested only in muskies and bass, most of them preferring to fish for the big 'lunge. When a northern pike [pickerel] was hooked the guide took hold of his club, did his work, unhooked the fish and threw it away.

The poor old pickerel, which is found in thousands of lakes because it is so widely distributed throughout Canada, simply is not a game fish up there in many parts of the north country, although they are large enough to give one all kinds of fighting and often will wreck your tackle.

Hudson, Ont., is a favorite muskie region for many anglers in the middle west. Plenty of water and plenty of fish in that wild district. A very good game fish in the Hudson waters is the lake trout. E. V. Champion, state's attorney from Peoria, Ill., caught a 24 pounder up there this summer.

Dixon Takes State Junior Golf Crown

John Dixon of Evergreen, captain of the Tilden Tech High school golf team won the junior title, and Ralph Carlson, of Glen Oak, captured the senior championship in the finals of the second annual Illinois State Junior Golf tournament at Cog Hill yesterday. Dixon triumphed, 3 and 2, over John Morrell of Glen Oak, and Carlson defeated Parker Thomas, unattached, 4 and 2.

Dixon, 17 year old blond first came into the picture when he dropped a close decision to Chuck Bland in the finals of the Illinois State High school tournament at Peoria last year. He also was a member of the Tilden Tech city champion team, in 1934.

All Square on First Nine.

In his match with Morrell he started the morning round by winning three holes in succession. Trap trouble and missing short putts enabled Morrell to win back three holes and square the match at the finish of the first nine. The lead changed hands on the second nine with Morrell 1 up on the 13th, but Dixon evened the match on the 15th when Morrell rimmed the cup to miss a short putt. A birdie 4 on the long 545 yard 17th hole put Dixon in front 1 up, and the final hole of the morning eighteen was halved in 4s. Dixon turned in a 38—39—77, and Morrell a 38—40—78.

Dixon continued his steady pace after lunch and led at the end of 27 holes, 1 up. He won the 28th with a birdie 3, and on the 30th hole widened his lead to 3 up by registering his sixth birdie. They halved the next four holes and the match ended on the 34th green.

Fuqua Ready to Test Skill with Hewitt

tough assignment, but in his career at college Fuqua has shown he's capable of great football. His teammates at Southern Methodist showed their confidence in him by electing his captain two years [1933 and 1934]. No other player in the history of the university has received that honor. The football experts who selected the Western All-Star team for the Shrine game at San Francisco last winter also showed their confidence in Fuqua by giving him a place. And he immediately showed he deserved it by breaking through to block a punt for the West's first touchdown.

He Keeps His Suit.

Fuqua is in first class condition now and has come through the training session with no injury more serious than a sprained toe. And even that wasn't incurred on the football field. It seems that some of the squad members had caught Bill Lee of Alabama out in the lake and had deprived him of his bathing suit, making it impossible for him to return to shore without embarrassment. They decided that was so much fun they would do the same to Fuqua so they came up to the beach to get him. In the struggle that followed, Fuqua kicked somebody in the head and sprained his toe—but he kept his suit on.

Fuqua has been working during the summer as a life guard in a swimming pool at Dallas, Tex. After the All-Star game he plans to return to Dallas, where he has a job lined up for the winter. He said that he may play a little pro football during the fall, but he isn't planning to make a career of it.

Cleveland, O., Aug. 25.—(AP)—Twenty-eight thousand saw the Cleveland Indians drop a double-header to the Boston Red Sox, 5 to 4, and 8 to 2, today. SMITTY—THE PRICE OF EXPERIENCE walked Gehrig and then threw three wide ones to Selkirk before getting over a couple of successive strikes. Selkirk then hopped on the cripple ball and drove a line double to center, scoring Combs and Gehrig. Whitehead steadied to make Dickey ground out to Piet. This started him on his span of great pitching.

Sox Defeat Yankees, 6-3; Then Lose, 6-1

The Sox went out in order in their first inning, though a decision on Radcliff was exceedingly doubtful.

Zeke Starts Something.

Then came the pleasing Chicago second. With one down Bonura drove a double to right and stayed on second while Rolfe threw out Dykes. Conlan singled to left, scoring Bonura, and took second on Combs' throw to the plate. Sewell got credit for a double when his fly plunked in short center on the first of tumbling acts by Rolfe, Conlan scoring. Whitehead also dropped a Texas leaguer back of the whirling Mr. Rolfe, scoring Sewell. Radcliff flied to Combs.

In the third inning the Sox made what proved to be the winning run. Piet singled to center, went to third on Appling's single to right and scored on Bonura's fly to Chapman. Though Rolfe managed to capture Dykes' fly to short left, the play cost the Yanks the services of Combs. In an attempt to keep from colliding with Rolfe, Combs dropped to the turf. After making the catch Rolfe fell on Combs, the accident tearing the ligaments in Earl's right shoulder.

Chapman Too Graceful.

The Sox wrote some insurance for themselves in the eighth. With one down, Chapman sought to catch Bonura's drive with the greatest of ease. The ball went through his graceful palms to the center field wall, enabling Bonura to reach third. Dykes walked and Conlan grounded to Lazzeri, whose throw to the plate was too late to get Bonura. Sewell lined a single to left, scoring Dykes, but Conlan was out at third when Allen intercepted Hill's throw and shoveled the ball to Saltzgaver. Whitehead popped to Rolfe.

Chapman doubled to center to start the ninth and round out the Yank total of three hits off Whitehead. Gehrig was called out on strikes. Selkirk flied to Simmons and Piet threw out Dickey.

SECOND GAME

The Sox got a single and a pass in the first inning of the second game but never got a runner past first. Radcliff opened with a single but Simmons tapped to Ruffing, who launched a double play, Piet walked and Appling flied to Selkirk.

Gehrig led off the Yank second inning by socking his No. 24 homer into the right center field stands, and Kennedy's sangfroid apparently went into the stands with the ball. Selkirk lined a single to center. Lazzeri bounced to Kennedy, who had a double play in sight until he threw the ball into center field, a misplay which enabled Selkirk to reach third and Lazzeri second. Piet recovered the ball in center and threw it into the Sox dugout, Selkirk scoring and Lazzeri taking third. Saltzgaver singled to center, scoring Lazzeri. Glenn sacrificed and Appling threw out Ruffing, after which Hill singled to left, scoring Saltzgaver. Hill was picked off first, Kennedy to Bonura.

Yanks Break Out Again.

The Yanks pushed Kennedy around some more in the fifth. Hill and Rolfe singled, but Hill was out at third on Chapman's attempted sacrifice. Gehrig continued to look upon our Vernon as a cousin and socked his third successive hit, a double, to right center, which scored Rolfe and Chapman. Lou got to third on the smash but was out, Conlan to Piet to Dykes, when he lifted his foot off the bag after sliding. Simmons went against the wall in front of the center field bleachers to make a one hand catch of Selkirk's drive.

Sox Get a Run.

Ruffing hadn't walked a batsman until the sixth, when he suddenly lost control to the extent of walking Piet and Appling. Bonura drove a long single to Chapman, easily scoring Piet, but when Appling became confused on the base lines and ran in the wrong direction for a time Chapman had time to get the ball into the infield and retire Luke at third. Dykes drew the third pass of the inning and the runners advanced while Conlan was being retired on a bouncer to Gehrig. Shea lined to Lazzeri.

NEW DEAL MAY CONTROL SOME PAPERS BY LOANS

FHA Urges Borrowing for Improvements.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 25.—[Special.]—A new method whereby a large number of daily and weekly newspapers may be made subservient to the New Deal is being advocated by the federal housing administration.

FHA is seeking to persuade newspapers to borrow up to $50,000 under the New Deal's insured mortgage plan, for improvements or repairs or for purchase of new equipment. Although banks actually make the loans to the newspapers, the FHA can use its own discretion about which advances it will "insure."

Can Refuse to Insure Loans.

Whether the New Deal housing administration will attempt to discriminate by refusing to insure loans to anti-New Deal papers, has not been tested out. No insured loans to newspapers actually have been closed, according to FHA headquarters here.

Almost 200 newspapers, however, have approached the FHA asking for further details or suggesting possible loans, inquiry disclosed. Letters sent out to newspapers by FHA brought 194 replies, 151 of them from weekly newspapers. The combined circulations of the papers replying was 464,000. FHA declined to reveal the names of the papers replying to its letter.

The replies contained 180 proposals for purchase of equipment, such as linotypes, presses, casters, and air conditioning systems. Fifty inquiries about possible plant alterations were included.

Broaden Lending Powers.

Loans to newspapers became possible, according to FHA officials, under amendments to the FHA law, which were passed by the last session of congress. The amendments broadened the lending powers to include loans of not more than $50,000 for improving or repairing "apartment or multiple family houses, hotels, office buildings, business or other commercial properties, hospitals, orphanages, colleges, schools, or manufacturing or industrial plants."

The term "manufacturing or industrial plants" is broad enough to cover newspapers, according to FHA lawyers. Consequently, letters soliciting loans for papers were sent out.

Banks would make the actual advances to newspapers under the FHA rules and then submit the loans to FHA for insuring. Any one of the long list of banks coöperating with FHA could make the loan to a newspaper upon the condition that FHA would subsequently accept it. The loan and all financial statements would then be sent to the FHA regional office for inspection.

At this point, FHA could discriminate, under the guise of other rules, against anti-administration newspapers by refusing on some technicality to insure their loans. The FHA "insurance," if granted, merely guarantees the lending bank against all losses on the loan up to 20 per cent of the loan's total.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: Away from It All

T. A. EDISON JR. DIES SUDDENLY; HEART FAILURE

Eldest Son of Famous Inventor.

Springfield, Mass., Aug. 25.—(AP)—Thomas Alva Edison Jr., 59, eldest son of the famous inventor, died at the Kimball hotel here today. He was head of the research engineering department of the Edison plant at West Orange, N. J. A medical examiner reported death apparently was due to a heart ailment.

Edison arrived at the hotel with two companions Friday night and registered under another name. Later he became ill and a physician was called. The physician remained in attendance until Edison died at 2 a. m. today.

Explains Assumed Name.

Edison and his companions registered at the hotel as W. H. Hildebrand, J. J. Griffin and J. J. Byrne, all of Orange, N. J.

John E. Sloane, a brother-in-law, said Edison was returning from a visit to the summer home of Charles Edison at Lake Sunapee, N. H., when his death occurred. Sloane said he was "not surprised" at reports that Edison registered under an assumed name. Sloane added members of the family frequently did so when traveling in order to escape notice.

With Company Official.

Traveling with Edison was W. W. Hildebrand, vice president and trafic manager of the Edison company.

Edison's widow returned today to their Llewellyn Park home from Asbury Park after receiving word of her husband's death.

The dead man was one of three children born of the great inventor's first marriage, to the late Mary Stillwell, formerly of Newark. The late Thomas Alva Edison was married a second time, to Mina Miller of Akron, O.

Thomas A. Edison Jr. made his home at 116 Prospect street, East Orange. He left a widow, Mrs. Beatrice H. Edison; a brother, William L. Edison of Wilmington, Del.; a sister, Mrs. Marion Oser of Norwalk, Conn.; two step-brothers, Charles and Theodore of Llewellyn Park, West Orange; and a step-sister, Mrs. John E. Sloane of Llewellyn Park, West Orange.

OPPOSE MINIMUM WAGE OF $16.50 IN BEAUTY SHOPS

Beauty shop owners will oppose enforcement of the state minimum wage law which is to go into effect for them today, according to S. R. Rabinoff, attorney for more than 200 proprietors here. A minimum wage of $16.50 a week for operators has been fixed by the advisory board, appointed by Martin P. Durkin, state commissioner of labor.

A petition signed by the shop owners was sent to the authorities yesterday asking that the enforcement of the minimum wage be held in abeyance until the board can hear the views of a representative group of owners.

The proprietors in their petition declare that the enforcement of the $16.50 minimum wage scale for operators would bankrupt several hundred smaller shops in the city and suburbs, aggravating unemployment. The beauty shop attorney said that if he is unsuccessful in having his clients heard he will attack constitutionality of the state law in court.

Mr. Durkin was reported out of town yesterday but it was said that he would be in his office this morning to receive the petition of the shop owners.

SCARCITY PLAN IS ASSAILED BY NEW YORK BANK

Cites Loss of Cotton Market Abroad.

The cotton situation presents one of the most striking illustrations of the unsoundness of the "economy of scarcity," the Guaranty Trust Company of New York asserts in its current survey.

"The unexpectedly large indicated yield brings out even more clearly than before the artificial character of the situation resulting from the effort of the government to suspend the fundamental law of supply and demand for the benefit of the producers," the survey declares.

"The demand abroad for American cotton, our most important export commodity, has been declining rapidly. During the season ended July 31 the world consumed more foreign than American-grown cotton for the first time since the civil war, with the exception of the year 1930-'31, when less than half of the world consumption was American by reason of expansion in foreign output and decline in world demand.

Assail Artificial Price.

"The present situation has been brought about largely by the maintenance of a domestic price above that for foreign cotton through lending activities of the AAA.

"It is becoming increasingly evident that the threat to America's cotton supremacy in world markets is more than a temporary situation; and if measures are not devised to re-establish cotton growers on something similar to the pre-war basis in the not too distant future, the economic life of the southern sections eventually will have to undergo a drastic alteration, which will have serious adverse repercussions throughout the country."

If further evidence were needed to establish the fact that our cotton supremacy not only has been threatened but no longer exists, it might be pointed out that the consumption of foreign-grown cotton last season was the largest ever recorded, the review continues.

Brazil Potent Danger.

"The most potent source of danger to American cotton growers consists of the large areas of virgin soil in Brazil that could be opened to cotton production," it says.

"Moreover, the country, in its attempt to find a solution to the unsettled state of economic affairs growing out of surplus coffee production, realizes that a diversion of capital and labor from production of coffee to cotton is not without merit."

"Prospects for the near future are not very bright," the Survey states. "The long term outlook is even more uncertain, depending largely on the future cotton policy of the government.

Situation Peculiar.

"The government is faced with a peculiar situation. By withholding cotton the government has made it possible for foreign growers to raise more cotton and sell it at highly remunerative prices, while at the same time this action, combined with artificially maintained higher domestic prices, prevents American producers from participating in this profitable situation.

"Even if the government should reverse its cotton policy, encourage, but not force, acreage reduction, and cease pegging prices, the problems of the cotton industry would be far from solved. If we are to continue to sell our cotton and cotton goods abroad in substantial quantities we must adjust our tarif barriers accordingly.

AAA Blame Is Large.

"The AAA must accept its share of responsibility for the rapid decline in the consumption of American cotton since its creation, for bringing about the substitution of foreign cotton for the American product abroad and breaking the 'habitual' consumption of American growths, and for raising hopes for a level of prosperity in the minds of cotton growers that under our present economic structure cannot be realized unless the government permanently subsidizes the industry.

"Perhaps the best solution of the problem would be to encourage diversion of part of southern labor and land into cultivation of other crops, to cease acreage reduction programs in return for cash payments and handicapping our growers in foreign markets by price pegging, to repeal the processing taxes, and to make tarif concessions so that foreign nations would be more willing and able to buy our cotton and cotton products."

Farm Board Loss Blamed on Dishonesty

Washington, D. C., Aug. 25.—[Special.]—In a report analyzing federal farm board losses through Stabilization corporation purchases of cotton and wheat, through loans to coöperatives, and in other activities, the special senate agricultural subcommittee declared that "inexperience, extravagance, avarice, and in a few cases dishonesty on the part of officials and employés of some of the coöperatives increased these losses."

The report, filed recently with the senate and compiled more than three years after passage of the Norris resolution calling for an inquiry into farm board activities, estimated that the actual and prospective losses to the revolving fund of 500 million dollars which congress created in 1929, amounted to $344,900,000 at the end of the fiscal year, June 30, 1935.

"69 Cents of Each Dollar."

This is "equivalent to 69 cents out of every dollar appropriated by the congress to the principal of the fund," said the statement which Senator Charles L. McNary [Rep., Ore.], head of the subcommittee, filed in the senate Friday for the congressional record. The report itself, which goes into great detail about grain and cotton loans and stabilization activities, will not be printed for several days.

The senate document declared that the Farmers' National Grain corporation made huge profits by acting as commission agents for the Stabilization corporation; set forth that the condition of the Grain corporation loans from the Farm Credit administration, which succeeded the farm board, "is satisfactory," charged that the corporation made a large profit by selling wheat to the Stabilization corporation, without delivery, and buying it back at low prices; told how the Grain corporation paid sizable amounts for "good-will" in taking over its regional units, when no good-will existed; how in one case $25,000 was paid for good-will on condition that the regional "coöp" drop prospective lawsuits against the farm board and the Stabilization corporation.

Discusses St. Paul Dealings.

The report went into some of the activities of the Farmers' Union Terminal association of St. Paul, then headed by M. W. Thatcher, who subsequently became Washington representative of the Farmers' National Grain corporation and showed that it held $100,000 of par value stock in the corporation at an outlay of only $40,000.

The interrelationship between the Farmers' National Grain corporation and the National Stabilization corporation, which made it possible for the former to earn large profits, was condemned in the report. The report said there was no service performed by the Stabilization corporation which the Farmers' National could not have performed equally well.

B. B. ROBINSON, UTILITY LOBBYIST, PAYS CITY VISIT

Bernard B. Robinson, "social lobbyist" for the Associated Gas and Electric company against the Wheeler-Rayburn utility bill, whose recent questioning by congressional committees revealed amusing insights into the "work" of a Washington lobbyist, was in Chicago yesterday.

Mr. Robinson left later in the day by plane for Los Angeles, where he makes his home with his parents. His company, B. B. Robinson & Co., fiscal agent for the gas company, maintains offices at 39 South La Salle street. He is unmarried and lives in hotels when in Chicago.

Mr. Robinson said he started his career as a street car painter in Butte, Mont., emerging through various business stages to that of investment banker.

France to Open Coffers to Aid Wheat Growers

CLERMONT-FERRAND, France, Aug. 25.—(AP)—Premier Laval announced today the Bank of France will open its coffers to wheat growers, badly hit by the slump in the price of the commodity. He said the bank would advance money to agricultural credit banks to allow the growers to meet urgent demands. At the same time he urged growers to hold their wheat as long as possible for a higher price. Wheat now is approximately one dollar a bushel.

WAR THREATS BUOY WHEAT PRICES HERE

Week Records Rise of 2 Cents a Bu.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

A new factor has been thrust into the market outlook by recent political developments in Europe. Nothing approaching a war scare has yet been experienced in the market, although the alarming news coming out of Europe last week served to buoy wheat prices in the Chicago market. It is the first time that war talk has been regarded seriously by traders since the assassination of the Austrian chancellor last year.

Wheat advanced two cents a bushel last week. Aside from the mildly bullish influence of the European news factors which brought about the gain were the abatement of the seasonal hedging sales in the market, the brisk commercial demand in cash markets and the crop news which was received from Canada, Argentina, and Australia.

Trading Volume Diminishes.

Trading quieted down toward the close of the week, but over the last several days there has been a marked expansion in the volume of speculative activity.

The present world wheat supply situation puts the market in a position which would result in a quick response if a genuine war scare arises. Argentina and Australia, which furnish much of the wheat for the European market, are currently facing a discouraging crop outlook. The Argentine crop has been subjected to a severe and prolonged drouth and it is now estimated that the harvest will exceed domestic consumption by about only 50 million bushels. Last season Argentina produced a surplus of over 140 million bushels.

In Canada the crop now being harvested has been severely damaged by rust blight and frost. The probable return is still uncertain but it is regarded as inevitable that a large percentage of the wheat harvested will be a low grade variety.

Situation Known Here.

In this country the wheat crop situation is fairly clearly defined. Already millers are bringing in Canadian wheat and before the season ends it is believed that imports will approach 60 to 75 million bushels.

Meanwhile Europe is not buying wheat aggressively. Stocks on hand are being depleted. Supplies on passage to Europe are extremely small. Demand might pick up suddenly if the political situation becomes more serious, it is believed.

Because the United States will draw on foreign supplies for a substantial amount of the wheat this season the effect of world prices on the domestic market is a direct one. Foreign news will play an increasingly important part in the market trend.

U. S. WILL AUCTION $100,000,000 ISSUE OF FARM SECURITIES

Washington, D. C., Aug. 25.—[Special.]—An issue of approximately $100,000,000 of 1½ per cent four year bonds of the Federal Farm Mortgage corporation, fully guaranteed as to principal and interest by the treasury, was announced today by Secretary Morgenthau.

The bonds will be sold under the "Auction" plan whereby they are awarded to the highest bidders, and tenders will be accepted at the federal reserve banks up to noon, eastern standard time, on Wednesday, Aug. 28.

The new bonds will be dated Sept. 3, will mature Sept. 1, 1939, and will not be subject to call prior to maturity. There is no comparable issue of farm mortgage bonds now on the market, but two outstanding treasury notes, which mature in 1939, were quoted yesterday at prices which made their yield approximately 1.3 per cent.

Despite the sharp decline in tenders and bid prices on the last treasury bond issue floated under the "auction" plan, Secretary Morgenthau and Farm Credit Administrator Meiers decided to offer the mortgage corporation's issue in this same manner.

Proceeds from the sale of the bonds, which have the shortest maturity of any outstanding farm mortgage issue, will be used in cash purchase of farm mortgages by the farm credit administration.

ILLINOIS CENTRAL JULY INCOME SHOWS DECLINE

Net operating income of the Illinois Central system for July was $186,670, compared with $813,619 in July, 1934. July operating revenues totaled $7,370,424, compared with $7,537,558 a year ago. For the seven months ended July 31 net operating income was $5,338,065, compared with $7,321,095 in the corresponding 1934 period. Total operating revenues for the seven months' period at $54,254,183 were $2,535,027 above the total for the 1934 period.

Net operating income of the Soo line for July was $135,359, compared with $67,798 in July, 1934. Operating revenues were $1,153,711, compared with $989,992.

The Wisconsin Central reported July net operating revenue as $309,266, compared with $216,309 in July, 1934. Gross operating revenues stood at $995,287, compared with $849,143.

STEEL DEMAND EXPANDS FASTER THAN OUTPUT

While steel operations advanced to 52½ per cent last week, production still seems to be lagging behind demand, according to the magazine Steel. Scrap prices also continue to rise with the quotation for melting steel—rising to $13 a ton in Chicago, highest in more than five years, while in Pittsburgh the price gained $1 to $14.50 a ton.

The present upward movement is construed as being sounder than any since the pre-depression era, one evidence of which is the increasing extent to which capital profits are being plowed back into capital equipment, the journal says. Operating increases last week included 3 points to 60 per cent in Chicago, 3 to 60 in Youngstown, 1 to 43 at Pittsburgh, 3 to 37 in Buffalo, 17 to 73 in New England, and ½ point to 33 in eastern Pennsylvania. Wheeling was down 8 points at 76 per cent and Cleveland 8 to 51 per cent. Birmingham and Detroit were steady at 35½ and 94 per cent, respectively.

While the European war threat has not resulted in any large orders for steel, some equipment orders are being placed in this country, according to the review, including 100 lathes to a Cincinnati builder from an automobile manufacturer in Italy. The rise in scrap has lifted the journal's scrap index 37 cents to $12.33 a ton, and the iron and steel price composite is up 4 cents to $32.72 a ton.

CHICAGO INDUSTRIES APPROACHING UPTURN, MANUFACTURERS SAY

Industrially, Chicago is approaching what most manufacturers seem to think will prove to be a welcome upturn, observers for the Association of Commerce reported yesterday. A stiffening in steel demand and more numerous inquiries reported by other producers confirm predictions that there will be busier days, particularly among durable goods concerns.

Little change was noted last week in the Chicago market conditions. Wholesalers had another satisfactory run of commitments, and retail turnover was about the same volume as in the rest of the month.

The most welcome developments were seen in the building and real estate fields, where rentals and purchases are making for stiffer prices and a more definite trend toward new construction.

Palestine Budget Surplus Estimated at $4,500,000

JERUSALEM, Aug. 25.—(AP)—A net surplus of more than $4,500,000 is expected by the Palestine government this year, according to its budget for 1935-'36. The estimated income for the year is approximately $27,800,000. The estimated expenditures are about $23,100,000. At least $5,000,000 will be spent on public works this year, the budget discloses.

Chicago Area Jobs, Wages Lower in July

Employment and pay rolls in the seventh federal reserve district showed seasonal declines of 2 and 4.4 per cent, respectively, during July, according to a report on business conditions released yesterday by the Chicago Federal Reserve bank.

A decline of 2 per cent in employment among 3,502 manufacturing concerns and a drop of 5.6 per cent in pay rolls of the same group were attributed to the customary layoffs for vacations and inventory. A total of 1,813 nonmanufacturing industries in the district, however, showed a gain of 0.6 per cent in wage payments, although employment followed the trend of the manufacturing industries by falling 2 per cent.

Vehicle Industry Leads.

A majority of the reporting companies shared in the decline, but the largest portion was contributed by the vehicle industry, which recorded a drop of 6.9 per cent in employment and 14.2 per cent in pay rolls.

These declines were approximately the same as in the preceding month, but placed the current levels for the industry at the bottom for 1935, although still higher than in any month during the latter half of 1934. The 218 companies in the vehicle group employed 258,120 workers out of the total of 785,439 for the manufacturing industries.

The largest decline for any single group in the manufacturing field was shown by the rubber products industry, which employs only 7,961 workers.

Drop First This Year.

Stone, clay, and glass products industries showed the first curtailment since January, with employment 2.6 per cent lower and pay rolls down 3.4 per cent. Three of the manufacturing groups showed increases in both employment and wages paid, these being the food, wood products, and the paper and printing industries. The sharpest gain was in the food group, which rose 9.7 per cent in employment and 7.8 per cent in pay rolls, due to the seasonal rise in canning and other food companies.

BUSINESS GAINS GIVE STRENGTH TO STOCK MART

Traders Still Fear Political Action.

New York, Aug. 25.—[Special.]—With congress about to adjourn and the prospect of another war in Europe, financial markets last week marked time. What strength the market showed seemed to come from the slow but steady improvement in business and the press of investment money seeking employment. A total of 10,480,500 shares was traded in last week, the second heaviest trading for any week this year.

The strength in the market was sufficient to overcome profit taking. However, traders were uneasy because of threats from different quarters, such as war munitions embargoes, the public utility holding company bill, the Guffey coal bill, and the performance of congress generally.

War Stocks Rise.

Some industries were indirectly helped by Italian preparations for war. Copper, for one, advanced half a cent a pound, lead prices hardened, and the steel scrap market held firm. Steel was last week's leader, motor, airplane shares, and shipbuilding stocks being other features.

The inference was bound to be drawn, what with lowering war clouds, that speculators were looking for another war stock market, notwithstanding the possibility of an embargo on munitions shipments and the lack of credit facilities for the combatants.

Steel Surprises Trade.

The steel industry, last week's leader, had more to help it at home than it could expect from a foreign war. The continued upturn in steel operations this season is called the surprise of the trade. It is perhaps the best single indicator of rising business, for demand is coming from all sorts of small buyers.

That the markets are still sensitive to legislative developments was shown last week by the sharp knockdown in prices that followed the quick passage of the Guffey bill on Monday. The bill to regulate the soft coal industry cannot be called a prime market influence directly, but it goes far toward that goal of complete management of industry by government that is favored by the New Dealers.

SURVEY SHOWS 8,500 UNSOUND BUILDINGS HERE

Structures in Many Areas Termed Dangerous.

BY AL CHASE.

More than 8,500 structurally unsound buildings in Chicago should be wrecked at once, according to Allan Williams, project director of the Metropolitan Housing council, a local organization composed of civic, business, and social bodies interested in improving housing conditions. Williams' statement is based on a city-wide survey, and attempts to define Chicago slum areas in physical rather than social terms.

The survey data has been classified into areas according to the percentage of houses requiring demolition. From this has been developed a map which shows the extent of blighted neighborhoods and the relative amounts of physical deterioration.

Conditions Detailed.

This map reveals ten areas in which from 20 to 40 per cent of the buildings are so dangerously dilapidated as to need immediate wrecking. The largest of these areas includes a wide belt west of the Chicago river, from Chicago avenue to Cermak road and extending south of the river between State and Halsted streets to 47th street.

Within these larger areas are shown smaller locations which have a higher percentage of defective buildings. Four spots are marked as having from 80 to 100 per cent of wreckable structures.

"Physical dilapidation of buildings to the point of major structural defects is one of the most important causes in the creation of slum areas," said Williams. "Excellent work already has been done in the last fifteen months toward slum clearance but a much greater job still lies ahead.

Remove 1,563 Danger Points.

"The survey shows that 75 buildings have been demolished through the effort of the state housing board; 626 razed by their owners and 360 demolished under the supervision of the health and fire departments. With the addition of 502 buildings satisfactorily repaired by their owners, a grand total of 1,563 danger points have been removed."

The housing council is now sponsoring a move to set up a permanent city administrative organization to handle the demolition problem. An ordinance is now being prepared.

Railroads Report 281,262 Freight Cars Need Repairs

New York, Aug. 25.—(AP)—Class 1 railroads on Aug. 1 had 281,262 freight cars in need of repair, or 15.3 per cent of the number on lines, the Association of American Railroads announced today. On July 15 there were 276,535 units in need of repair, or 15 per cent of the total.

Milwaukee Gas Light 4½s.

Investors' Guide: Will you please give me your advice regarding Milwaukee Gas Light 4½s, due 1967?—B. C.

Answer: This operating subsidiary of United Light and Power company has covered its fixed charges by substantial margins for the last ten years and is in a strong current position. Its first mortgage 4½s, due 1967, are sound.

The company supplies gas to Milwaukee, Wis., mostly for domestic consumption. Operating revenues for the 12 months to March 31, 1935, were $5,559,000, and bond interest was earned 1.84 times. In 1934 operating revenues were $5,668,000, against $5,709,000 for 1933. Fixed charges were earned 2.04 times, against 2.59 times in 1933, 2.68 times in 1932, and 2.87 times in 1931.

On March 31, 1935, current assets were more than three times current liabilities. The $14,000,000 funded debt consists solely of the 4½s due 1967.

East River Gold.

Investors' Guide: Would appreciate whatever information you can give me regarding East River Gold Mining and Milling company [Colorado] capital stock.—C. W. H.

Answer: The standard sources of investment information contain nothing on this company.

We wrote to the office of the secretary of state of Colorado and received the following reply from V. J. Bloom, corporation statistician of the department of state:

"The records of this office show that the charter of East River Gold Mining and Milling company expired by statute of limitation on Nov. 2, 1919, and has not been renewed."

The company is dead. Its stock is probably worthless.

Andrew Mellon and Public Debt.

Investors' Guide: Some time ago I made an assertion in the course of a dispute to the effect that Andrew Mellon while secretary of the treasury had reduced the public debt approximately a billion dollars a year. Of course I didn't have anything to back it but what I thought was my correct recollection. Can you give me the facts as to the reduction of the public debt by Mr. Mellon during his incumbency as treasurer?—J. H. H.

Answer: Andrew Mellon was secretary of the treasury of the United States from 1921 to 1932. On July 1, 1921, the public debt of the United States was 23,814 millions of dollars. On May 31, 1932, the net public debt was 18,753 millions of dollars, a reduction of about five billion dollars.

WEAKNESS IN U.S. ISSUES FEATURE OF BOND TRADING

Offerings Are Heaviest in Many Months.

New York, Aug. 25.—(AP)—A prolonged sinking spell in U. S. government issues featured the bond market last week. Under heaviest offerings witnessed in months all classes of government obligations declined sharply toward the end of the week with three issues slipping under par on Friday for losses up to ¾ of a point before steadying.

There was no specific news to account for the movement, which has been under way with minor interruptions for the past 10 days.

Await Treasury Terms.

Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau announced he would make public terms of the refunding of $1,250,000,000 fourth 4¼ per cent Liberties in the near future and there was much speculation concerning the issue that will be chosen as the medium for exchange. In view of the weakness in the 2¾s, which dipped below par, it was generally agreed among close observers of the market, that the treasury would be forced to select the next highest coupon rate unless there was a decided improvement before the terms were announced.

Corporate bonds were subjected to various sorts of developments, both good and bad, but on the whole remained relatively steady.

Low Yield Lies in Limelight.

Low yield bonds, especially those that can be called before maturity, were brought into the spotlight again when the refunding habit seemed to be ready for another whirl.

Chrysler corporation called for payment $5,000,000 of its outstanding notes, due in 1939, and negotiations were reported under way for the refunding of some $13,000,000 debenture 5s by Allis-Chalmers.

SAYS GERMANY MUST GET TRADE TO PAY ITS DEBTS

BERLIN, Aug. 25.—(AP)—The German economic picture was again brought into the spotlight today when Finance Minister Schwerin von Krosigk spoke at Leipzig at the opening of the fair.

The official stressed the needs of fortifying the German export trade as an indispensable requirement for the payment of foreign debts.

"We still hold," he said, "that claims of our foreign creditors must be satisfied, but we can only pay in kind. There are only two ways of settling the German debt problem: either by reduction of interest of amortization coupled with a temporary moratorium, or by a stimulation of export surplus. Circumstances forced us to adopt the first way, but we hope that the latter way will be more beneficial to our creditors and to us."

--Business!

WITHOUT COST TO YOU!

We are a large $100,000,000 corporation with executive offices in New York, who are expanding our operations to Chicago, and establishing a regional office here. We will need about 25 men to handle our Chicago business and will have responsible, well paid positions to offer right men. They will be operating entirely their own business under our supervision.

We have no competition because we have a monopoly in our field. There is nothing like our merchandise. We are willing to consign to our new employes all elec. unit merchandise without deposit. At the start, each business location will net a percentage of about $30.00 a week. As men gain in experience and knowledge the incomes will increase substantially.

This is no mahogany desk job. You will have to be on your feet about 8 hours a day. The many men who are successful with us in the East are real workers.

The men whom we select to start out with us in Chicago will be schooled by our director of personnel for a period of three days to familiarize them with our merchandising plans. Some of our new managers in the east are making as much as $15.00 a day. Those who start with us here will have a marvelous field for advancement. This is only the beginning.

OUR REQUIREMENTS.

We will expect you to be honest, reliable and steady. Experience in previous business or managerial position not necessary. For further details regarding these positions CALL PROMPTLY AT 8 P. M. TONITE. 4832 LINCOLN-AV., SUITE 210.
